

In response to city's plan to build force

400 police officers line up for jobs

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

More than 400 certified police officers have responded to Romulus' advertisement for such personnel even though the city may never have its own police force.

City Council gave its unanimous approval last week to Mayor William Oakley's request for Romulus to make clear to the county the need to clarify the present law enforcement situation.

As of right now, Wayne County Deputies, which provide police protection for the city, are scheduled to be laid off May 19 and Romulus would be left without protection. However, Circuit Judge Victor J. Baum issued an order Friday that marathon negotiations be started immediately between Wayne County Commissioners and county sheriff's deputies.

A report on the results of the around-the-clock sessions was to be presented to Judge Baum Monday. Judge Baum's order came the day after Wayne County deputies voted unanimously to reject a wage concession package that would have kept 267 deputies working through May 19.

The latest turn of events has not shaken the faith of Oakley, who is still hoping the county will provide police protection for Romulus so the city will not have to create its own police force.

"Judge Baum has ordered around-the-clock negotiations over the weekend and we'll just have to wait and see what comes of that," Oakley said Friday just prior to leaving for a conference in Wash. D.C.

Accompanying the mayor to the nation's capitol for a two-day session were Councilman Ed Rush and Grants Coordinator Patrick Hogan.

Rush said he was hopeful the city could obtain grant money to create a police force. "As I understand it, grant money is available to establish and fund a police force and we are going to be talking with people in Wash. D.C. about that possibility," Rush said.

Although City Council finally voted unanimously to urge Wayne County Commissioners to make their position clear on providing police protection for Romulus, the subject was discussed for nearly an hour.

Someone asked if Oakley wanted authorization to end the contract with the county. "I'm not sure terminate is the word we want," Oakley replied. "But we have to have a response from them as soon as possible."

Mayor Pro-Tem Mary Ann Banks asked the mayor if he would consider setting a deadline for an answer from the commissioners or settling of the contract.

"We're living on borrowed time right now in starting a police force in Romulus," Oakley replied.

Councilman Ray Cantrell inquired, "Where will the money come from to pay for a police department?"

"Part of the money will come from what we're paying the county — maybe some borrowed money...there's a slim possibility of grant money," the mayor responded.

Cantrell said he would rather see an income tax placed on the workers in Romulus than a special millage on the city's residents.

Councilman Rush said, "I have been in contact with Sen. Riegle's office and they said there is no LEAA money available to fund the police department."

Councilman Gerry Canejo said he felt the county would not settle the contract with Romulus. "From my meetings, it's my feeling we will not have a contract with the county. Why not go ahead and set up our own police department?" Canejo asked Oakley.

Bleacher reachers

Vandals in Romulus reached out and stole approximately $4,000 worth of bleacher seats at Elmer Johnson Park and Park Number One last week. Recreation Superintendent Dennis Davidson (from left) points out where the 16-foot risers were taken from while Sgt. John Walker and Deputy George Wesson of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department write their report. In filing his report, Davidson also said four lights and shields were broken at the softball field. Davidson is joining with City Beautification Committee members, school officials and county police in pushing an anti-vandalism campaign in the next few weeks. ANP photo by Lothar Konietzko.

On agenda: city's renaissance

EDC, county plan talks

A very important meeting to stimulate commercial and industrial development in the City of Romulus.

That's how some describe the visit and presentation of the Economic Development Corporation-Wayne County (EDC-WC) planned for 7 p.m. next Tuesday at Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Road.

"The Economic Development Corporation-Wayne County could be very instrumental in the resurgence of the business climate in Romulus," said Joyce Palmer, secretary of the Romulus Central Business District Association, which is sponsoring Tuesday's special program.

"This is a unique opportunity for city officials, business people and civic leaders, as well as the general public, to get a first-hand presentation of financing programs and non-financing services and programs available to businesses," she said.

Scheduled to be on hand from EDC-WC for the presentation are Robert FitzPatrick, executive director; Gregory Pitoniak, business retention project manager; Steven Schrock, SBA/EDA loan packager; and Robert Sabell, assistant revenue bond project manager.

The one-hour meeting will feature a brief history of the EDC-WC, introduction of the staff and a slide presentation by FitzPatrick. An explanation of the programs and services of the agency will follow, including financing programs and non-financing services.

Included in the financing programs are tax-exempt revenue bonds, SBA/EDA loan packaging and HUD 312 Commercial loan packaging. Non-financing services include assistance with site (Continued on Page A-3)

$4,000 in damages

Vandals hit city parks

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

An anti-vandalism campaign in Romulus is not getting underway any too soon.

Plans to curb destruction at city parks and schools were spurred forward last week when an estimated $4,000 damage was done by vandals at Elmer Johnson Park and Park Number One.

The latest vandalism came as a big disappointment to representatives of the Recreation Department, Beautification Committee, Romulus Schools and Wayne County Sheriff's Department, who stepped up plans for their spring campaign against the rising tide of malicious destruction.

Most of the damage was done at Elmer Johnson Park on Ozga Road, where $2,000 worth of metal bleacher seats were stolen, four lights and shields broken out at the softball diamond, and other destruction at the archery range and the pavilion.

"It's all very disgusting," Recreation Supervisor Dennis Davidson said as he viewed the vandalism at Johnson Park, on Ozga Road just south of Wick Road.

"It makes it a lot tougher to get ready for the softball season, as well as being a senseless cost to the taxpayers. We have a fairly good idea who's doing the vandalism and are turning our information over to the juvenile authorities."

Several areas were vandalized at Johnson Park, while Park Number One, at Henry Ruff at Beverly, apparently suffered only the theft of twenty metal bleacher risers. Each riser is 16-feet in length and very expensive.

Three main areas were hit at Johnson Park — the softball field, the archery range and the pavilion.

At the softball field, forty metal 16-

Picking up the pieces

Recreation employees found this distasteful mess when they arrived at Elmer Johnson Park one morning last week. Shown picking up the pieces of two burned and splintered wooden benches are crew leader Frank Hood (from left), Jim Connolly, and foreman Al Britz. Hood and Connolly were the first to spot the destruction and reported it to their superiors. Six electrical outlets, conduit and a 10-foot section of fence was ripped from its foundation. Recreation officials have an idea who may be responsible for the vandalism and have turned over their information to county police officers. ANP photo by Lothar Konietzko.

Romulus loses 'a good friend'

Services conducted for Stanley Gnas

The youth of Romulus and the community as a whole lost a true friend when Stanley Gnas died Feb. 21 at the age of 58.

The longtime Romulus resident was head umpire for Romulus Little League and the Romulus Youth Baseball Association before that.

In addition, he was involved for years in a host of activities with St. Aloysius Church and civic organizations.

Services were held for Mr. Gnas last week Tuesday from Baum Funeral Home and St. Aloysius Church on Ozga Road. Officiating was the Rev. Walter Lezuchowski with interment at Michigan Memorial Park in Huron Township.

Survivors include his wife, Irene; three sons, Frank and Bill of Romulus and Danny of Louisiana; four grand children and two brothers, Ted and Walter of Hamtramck.

"He was the backbone of every organization he was a part of," said business man Doug Baum, who worked closely for years with Mr. Gnas in the youth baseball program.

"Stanley did an awful lot for the community and he will be truly missed in every sense of the word. I can't think of anyone who was more willing and helpful in assisting others," Baum said.

Mr. Gnas was born on Nov. 5, 1922 in Hamtramck and moved to Romulus 15 years ago. From his arrival here, he was vitally involved with a large number of community organizations and especially with his church, St. Aloysius.

He was a member of the St. Al's Usher Club for years, also in charge of Boysville activities; bingo chairman for several years, and an active member of the Gregorian Club.

In addition, he was the top salesman for the Romulus Kiwanis Club in their benefit drives every year. "He had a spirit and drive that just wouldn't give up," Baum said. "He was the top salesman for Kiwanis every year and there wasn't anything he wouldn't do to help youngsters in baseball or any person who needed a hand."

Mr. Gnas and his wife both sat on the board of directors of Romulus Youth Baseball League for many years. He was employed as a mill hand at Peerless Gage Company for 17 years.

In his moments of leisure and recreation, he loved to golf and was an avid bowler.

"I speak for myself and a host of other friends of Stan when I say he was truly loved by everybody in Romulus and we appreciate what a marvelous influence he had on all of our lives," Baum said.

Rural carriers needed

Do you want to deliver the mail?

Did you ever want to deliver mail for a living?

Well, your opportunity is at hand.

It was announced this week that substitute rural mail carriers are needed for the communities of Belleville, Romulus, Wayne-Westland, Plymouth and Taylor.

Detroit Postmaster Gene Cole said applications for substitute rural carrier positions will be taken starting Monday of this week and will be received for the foreseeable future. Later on, a date will be set for those applying to take an examination and be placed on a roster which will serve the above suburban communities.

"Those who are interested in applying should do so as soon as possible," said Gilbert Dingman, supt. of postal operations for the Belleville Post Office.

"Substitute carriers will be given preference where they want to carry mail -- as much as it is possible," he said.

Cole further explained that substitute rural carriers are assigned to perform the duties of the regular carrier on the route for which the substitute has been designated during the absence of the regular carrier. Such absences may be the result of scheduled days off, leave, illness, military service and other reasons.

"Eligibles selected for appointment must have a valid state driver's license and a safe driving record and they must pass the Postal Service Road Test to show they can safely drive a vehicle of the type used on the job," Cole said.

All substitute rural carriers must furnish and maintain at their own expense vehicle equipment necessary for the prompt handling of the mails. They are given an equipment maintenance allowance based on the daily mileage scheduled, or a minimum allowance per day, whichever is greater, Cole said.

"Applicants must have reached their 18th birthday by the date of filing application. This age limit does not apply to persons entitled to veteran preference. There is no maximum age limit," Cole explained.

Substitute rural carriers' starting salaries range from $16.37 per day to $85.63 per day, depending on the length and character of the mail route. Cost of living allowance is included in the rate of pay.

Those interested in applying should pick up Application Form PS 2479-AB at their nearest post office between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Application forms are also available at U.S. Postal Service, 1401 West Fort Street, Personnel Division -- Room 201, Detroit, Michigan, 48233 -- from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Postal review

Congressman William D. Ford (at left) of Michigan's 15th District discusses operations of Allen Park's highly-mechanized bulk mail facility with Anthony J. Schiavone, Michigan District Manager. Ford, chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, toured the sprawling plant for a first-hand look at the automated operation. The Allen Park bulk mail facility enjoys an excellent safety record while some others have experienced problems. "I wanted to see for myself a bulk mail center that is working well," Ford told local postal officials and workers. "The committee will be discussing bulk mail centers and I wanted an opportunity to personally view the complexities of this ultra-modern operation that employs more than 600 workers and handles 217,000 mail sortings daily."

Starship Command's mission is 'people helping people'

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

People helping people. It's the basic philosophy of volunteering and the prime reason why Starship Command exists.

A network of volunteers throughout Wayne County who work closely with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Starship Command has its "ears" on 365 days a year, ready to send help to wherever help is needed.

With a base at the department's Road Patrol Office in Westland, volunteers monitor Channel 9 on the CB radio from 7 p.m. to 4 a.m. daily. The Command has about 150 members and maintains satellite bases and mobiles throughout the county, but its maincenter is at the Road Patrol, where volunteers work 3-hour shifts to keep Starship Command on the air year-round.

But according to Colleen Hepfinger, many of the volunteers are on the air throughout the day, monitoring calls on both Channel 9 and 19.

It has 38 monitors and 22 bases. Servicing the entire county, Starship Command requires that those volunteers working at the Road Patrol undergo a training program with trainer Nancy McMichaels, then work with the monitor in 6-hour shifts for a period of time. Those working at the Road Patrol also go through a clearance check

400 police officers line up for city's proposed force

"It's a matter of dollars," the mayor replied.

Much of the discussion was carried on by Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry who said he felt the mayor should be more conciliatory toward the county.

"I spent six hours with the board of commissioners — go where the action is," Raspberry said. "There seems to be a rivalry between the county sheriff and the commissioners. They said we owed $84,000 to the county and no one was there to defend Romulus."

Oakley replied, "Six months ago, I asked for arbitration and for the county to itemize their costs to us. They still haven't done that."

Raspberry pointed out that the city auditor himself said Romulus owes about $75,000 to the county.

"We need to deal in good faith," the veteran councilman told the mayor. "We're paying something like $30,000 a month more than we owe, but when our own auditor indicates we owe something in the neighborhood of $750,000, then maybe we need to be a little more understanding of the county's position."

Mayor Oakley answered, "The county is suing Romulus for back funds."

Raspberry continued his theme of Romulus offering an olive branch. It'll be a dark day when the County Commissioners take away the Investigative department," he said. "I think the mayor may have to act in a conciliatory nature. Perhaps you'll have to go and meet with the commissioners and ask them what they have to offer in the way of an answer to the problem."

"I don't think a small Romulus police force will be effective at all," Raspberry continued. "Where is the money coming from for salaries, equipment and buildings?"

Oakley explained he felt he had gone "more than the extra mile" in dealing with county officials.

"I've been down to Detroit and have met with the county auditors," Oakley said. "I signed an agreement in 1978 saying we'd pay $1,000,076 per year for county police protection. "I've never gone down there with a gun in my hand. I think I have been very patient, in fact."

Councilman Rush asked Oakley if he had gotten city attorney Peter O'Rourke's opinion. "He signed the agreement with you on the city's behalf. It concerns me that they are still billing Romulus at the same old rate and not giving us credit for it," Rush said.

Councilman Richard Yeramian interjected, "The County Commissioners want to get out of the police business."

Raspberry said Romulus was caught in the middle. "As long as we have an agreement, we should keep paying on it. It will take a year to establish a police department. Judge Baum's decision is not clear. Many lawyers disagree on just what his decision means."

Mayor Oakley, showing a little impatience with Raspberry's apparent failure to grasp what he was proposing, said, "As of today, we have less than three months to create a police force."

Many observers at the meeting commented later that Oakley and Raspberry were aiming for the same result, but somehow it got lost in the abundance of words somewhere during the long discussion.

WAYNE — Senator Majority Leader William Faust, the next governor of the State of Michigan?

That's what a group of area residents, headed by Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton would like to see. Norton feels that the time has come for the veteran statesman to run for the highest elected office this state has to offer.

"By virtue of his outstanding contribution to this state," Norton continues, "and for his recognized ability to lead and for reorganizing the Senate and bringing prestige to that body, I sincerely believe there would be no better man than William Faust to serve as governor."

Faust, who served at one time as Nankin Township supervisor, (now Westland), has spent more than three decades — the last 17 in the Senate — in government. The Democrat from Westland has been the Senate Majority Leader for the past eight years.

"During the 27 years I have known him I have never been disappointed in his personal integrity and his performance in elected office," Norton added, "and that makes him my kind of man for governor."

Senate Majority Leader since 1977, Faust is 52-year-old and has accomplished what many of his colleagues once believed was impossible — he has given the senate a positive image, an image that was once, according to one senator: "We were a group of self-serving peacocks."

Faust has also helped curb irresponsible spending by that body and has been instrumental in promoting progressive legislation.

Confined to a wheelchair after an accident, Faust has been able to keep up the hectic pace he has established over the years.

"As an individual who puts in the number of hours that he does — and he travels all over the state," Norton pointed out, "I don't think his health is going to be a problem."

Norton said that if there are individuals who wish to add their names to a "Citizens' Committee to urge Faust to run for Governor", they should either contact him or a Mrs. Richardson at 721-3231.

BELLEVILLE — Two teen-age Belleville youths were arrested last week and charged with the robbery of a Van Buren party store.

The suspects, Ralph J. Baum, 17, and John Morris, also 17, were taken into police custody and arraigned on charges of assault with intent to rob while armed.

Morris was arrested at his home and taken before an out-county judge and arraigned on the charge. Baum was arrested on Monday. Both defendants were released on $5,000 bonds.

Examination has been set for 9 a.m., March 11.

The two are accused of holding up Montroy's Market, 41375 Van Born and escaping with approximately $150 in cash. The robbers made their getaway in a dark blue over light blue 1973 Grand Torino.

Detective Ed Lindberg said that the two accused youths were arrested on information supplied by a witness.

"Someone read your newspapers and later called us and told us that he felt he had some information about the robbery," Det. Lindberg said. "Our investigation led to the two defendants."

If convicted on the charge, the two youths could receive life imprisonment.

INKSTER — Joining the fight against the never-ending rise in water rates, the Inkster City Council Monday night earmarked $1,929.75 to the Suburban Association of Detroit Water Customers so that that group may seek legal opinion on recent water rate hikes passed down to the suburbs by Detroit.

The association was formed under the leadership of Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara who is urging all communities that are purchasing water from the city of Detroit to pay 2½ cents per population (1970 census) to help defray legal costs anticipated in the association's fight for equity in management of the Detroit Water System and in the water rate structure.

The council unanimously approved the resolution authorizing the payment.

VAN BUREN — Faced with approximately a $500,000 deficit this year, the Van Buren School Board threatened to eliminate some 60 to 70 employees, including 40 teachers if a 4-mill levy is defeated by the voters later this month.

Voters are scheduled to go to the polls on March 30 to decide the fate of the mills which would generate enough monies to cover a projected $730,000 deficit by next fall.

Among cuts anticipated are: 60-to-70 employees, including 40 teachers; the elimination of all sports, including the position of athletic director; reduce instruction time from six to five hours for grades 1 through 12 and at the elementary level eliminate such programs as music, art and physical education.

LANSING — The House has approved a resolution sponsored by State Representative William R. Keith, (D-Garden City) requiring quarterly publication of tax-paid outstate expenses for House members and employees.

The reports will be published in the House Journal, which is the official record of proceedings of the House, and a public document.

"Although this out-of-state travel to conduct state business is a legitimate function of members and employees of the House of Representatives, the taxpayers deserve a record of accountability," Keith said.

"I feel that taxpayers have a right to know who travels where and for what reason and how much it costs. This type of disclosure is in the interests of good government," The House Journal, he said, is freely available to anyone who wants it.

Under the Keith resolution, the names of members and employees of the House and the amounts of public money they spend for outstate travel will be published in the Journal each January, April, July and October for the previous three month period.

"Members and employees of the House who travel outside Michigan are already required to file reports on expenses," Keith said. "However, these reports should be more easily accessible to the press and public. I do not feel that any interested parties should have to ferret this information out of House files. It should be readily available on a quarterly basis, which it will now be as part of the House Journal."

"The support I received for this resolution is, to me, an encouraging indication that the members of the House want to maintain confidence with the taxpayers. They are the people who pay and they are entitled to know what they are paying for. Outstate travel is a necessary function of state government, but it should be a matter of public record."

foot long bleacher risers were stolen from the first base side. "That wasn't kids doing that," Davidson observed.

"Those bleacher seats are heavy and it takes a pretty good size individual to carry them. They apparently loosened the seats, loaded them in a truck and drove off with them."

"There are truck tracks over there by right field," he explained. In addition, four lights and shields were busted from the poles by the first base dugout.

At the archery range, four banks of fluorescent lights were smashed, weights were pulled from the target areas, cross beams were damaged, part of a fence cut out and wooden signs broken in half.

The damage was found by Al Britz, foreman for the Recreation Department, and two of his workers, Frank Hood, a crew leader, and Jim Connelly. Those three showed the damaged areas of Johnson Park to county detectives. Davidson, Midge Prybyla and Pam Fraser of the Romulus Beautification Committee and a reporter and photographer from the Roman.

Burned and splintered benches, six electrical outlets torn out, conduit ripped loose and a 10-foot section of fence cut out was the scene at the pavilion. One wooden bench was set on fire and was still smoldering when Recreation Workers found it the next morning.

"Theft is bad enough, but vandalism like this is just plain senseless," Davidson said, slowly shaking his head as he viewed the scene.

Mrs. Prybyla and Mrs. Fraser said they are anxious to get started with their anti-vandalism campaign that has been in the planning stages for a short time. "I guess we'll have to get moving quickly with our program to educate children about vandalism," Mrs. Prybyla said.

She pointed out that the Romulus Beautification Committee will cooperate with the local schools in presenting programs to various classes in an effort to curb the vandalism that is hitting virtually every area of the county.

Schools suffer thousands of dollars in damage each year and even the Romulus DPW reported there is a thousand dollars in damage done to local stop signs each month.

Davidson looks forward to the anti-vandalism program planned by the beautification committee in conjunction with the Recreation Department, county police officers and Romulus Schools.

"I think this project is needed because the cost of vandalism to the taxpayers is astounding and we need to spread the message that the cost of this malicious destruction is coming out of everyone's pocket," he said.

EDC, county set meeting to discuss city's renaissance

location, employe training, technical assistance, foreign trade opportunities, grantsmanship and marketing.

Of special interest to local business people will be an update on efforts to promote commercial and industrial development in the City of Romulus. There will also be a report on the status of downtown redevelopment assistance efforts, recommendations for future action, and other potential activities and projects in the city.

Also planned is a time of public discussion when members of the audience will be able to make comments and have their questions answered.

The Romulus Downtown Development Authority became official last week when City Council had the second reading of the new ordinance.

William Simonds Jr., president of RCBDA and one who has worked to have the DDA established, praised City Council members for their action.

"Your approval of the ordinance to establish a Downtown Development Authority was truly a positive step forward," Simonds stated in a letter to City Council.

"This management tool will prove to be very successful to continue the efforts of the Romulus Central Business District Association's goal to revitalize (Renaissance) of Romulus."

"Your avid support has been greatly appreciated. Let's continue to work together to promote progress for our city."

Mrs. Palmer reported that the RCBDA started with eight downtown merchants in Feb. 1979 and has grown to 22 members. Twelve of those members joined during the membership drive which started Oct. 2, 1980 under the chairmanship of Leo Kalota, vice-president of Manufacturer's National Bank in Romulus.

"RCBDA members have put in many hours of dedication and determination to continue with the goal of seeing the renaissance of downtown Romulus," said Mrs. Palmer.

"They are determined that this revitalization has already started and several businesses have started plans on renovating their buildings."

Mrs. Palmer said the next steps will be to file with the Secretary of State's office and the appointment of members to the Authority's executive board.

"While this is taking place, the RCBDA will continue to further their plans and assist the DDA to complete the strategy and design for downtown Romulus," she said.

Local fire officials study woodburning stove safety

156 firefighters attend weekend seminar in Canton

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Fire Chief John Wilhide and two city inspectors were among 156 safety officials from all over the state who attended a safety seminar on woodburning stoves in Canton.

The fast-rising number of deaths and property damage related to the misuse of woodburning stoves, fireplaces and chimneys prompted the safety seminar presentation.

Joining Wilhide for the 4 1/2-hour workshop were Bill Case, electrical inspector, and Norbert Czajkowski, city heating inspector for Romulus.

Highlight of the seminar was a slide presentation by Tom Campbell, public information officer for the State Fire Marshal's office, and a trip to Village Fireplace for an in-store demonstration of various wood-burning devices.

"It was a very valuable seminar and we learned a great deal about wood-burning stoves and how people misuse them," Wilhide said. "I plan to issue a report to the people of Romulus soon on the dangers of misusing woodburning devices such as stoves, fireplaces and chimneys.

"For instance, we learned that virtually every person using a woodburning device is in violation some way of the fire code."

Included in the packed audience were fire building officials from Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Van Buren Township, Belleville and Sumpter Township in addition to numerous other local communities. Some fire safety and building officials came from as far away as Port Huron to attend.

Catalyst for the woodburning seminar was Earl Schabo, owner of Village Fireplace, 6074 N. Sheldon Road in Canton. He met weekly with Aaron Machnik, Canton building official, and Art Winkel of the Canton Fire Department to plan the well-attended presentation.

Campbell, who investigated seven fires caused by woodburning devices, showed a slide presentation that covered the costly blazes from inception to tragic finish.

"It was so quiet during the slide presentation you could hear a pin drop," Schabo said. "All those fire officials and building inspectors, with their many years of experience sat and listened intently as Mr. Campbell gave his impressive slide presentation."

Campbell himself summed up the magnitude of the seminar. "Canton did something that's never been accomplished before. This is the first time anyone has ever got this many people together for a fire safety and prevention seminar," he told the assembled audience.

Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun was very impressed with the woodburning seminar.

"I felt it was very enlightening to everyone who attended. We learned a lot about how they manufacture woodburning stoves and the correct way to use them," the veteran fire chief said.

Paulun said he was very excited about the import of the seminar and the fact that fire and building officials came from as far away as Port Huron to attend. "Also, Earl Schabo, Aaron Machnik and Art Winkel deserve a lot of credit for preparing the safety seminar."

Edgar Frazier, Inkster Deputy Fire Chief, who attended the workshop with

You may qualify for tax rebate

As a result of the Homestead Tax Credit, commonly called the "circuit breaker," a citizen may qualify for a rebate of 60 percent on all property taxes which exceed 3.5 percent of a person's annual household income. In essence, the circuit breaker relates property taxes to one's ability to pay.

The following points about the circuit breaker are an explanation as given by administration officials of Romulus Community Schools:

"Everyone who pays property tax or rents is eligible.

There are four separate forms for filing. Most residents will use MI-1040CR-4, while senior citizens use MI-1040-CR-1. Other forms are available for eligible veterans and the handicapped.

After completing the proper form, taxpayers record the information on their regular state income tax form.

$1,200 is the maximum rebate allowable.

To assist you in determining whether or not you qualify for a rebate on your property tax, the following information is provided:

For senior citizens, defined as anyone 65 years old or older, the property tax relief provided by the circuit breaker provision is much greater than the allowance granted to other taxpayers. In fact, no senior citizen must pay more than 3.5 percent of his/her income in property taxes, and some even less.

For example: Mr. and Mrs. Jones' household in-

Zehr to launch annual Mission's conference

Clyde Zehr, a missionary to Korea for 15 years, heads a roster of missionaries from around the world in a week-long annual missionary conference at the First Baptist Church of Wayne, 36125 Glenwood.

Entitled, "Decade of Destiny," the annual special event began last Sunday, with Zehr beginning a series of messages relating to his experiences in Korea.

He will be followed on Wednesday, March 4 by presentations from Hal Olsen and Art Davis, both with the African Inland Mission (AIM), and both serving in Kenya, East Africa.

According to First Baptist Pastor Arnold Olsen, (no relation), "Hal Olsen is one of the most effective missionary communicators I have ever heard. His work in Kenya, involving missionary radio, and literature distribution, has great influence in the country and is heartily supported by the President of Kenya, himself a graduate of an AIM school." The service on Wednesday begins at 7 p.m.

Thursday, March 5 is earmarked "Ladies Day" for the conference and will feature a full day of presentations by female missionaries, beginning at 9:30 a.m. A free salad luncheon will be served in the church gymnasium at 11:30 a.m.

Special music will be provided by Kathy Ardelean, who, with husband Dave, a 1963 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, have just completed their first full-length album of contemporary Christian music, to be released soon.

On Friday, March 6, Dr. Charles Rhodes, a medical doctor with Baptist Mid-Missions serving in the Central African Empire, will share the rostrum with Dave Salstrom, of the Far Eastern Gospel Crusade, presently serving as a professor at the Febias College of the Bible in Manila, Philippines.

"Breakfast on the Mountain top" is the theme of a special breakfast to be held in the church gym at 9:30 a.m. Cost is only $2 per person.

Sunday, March 8 marks the end of the special services, with guest appearances by each missionary at all Sunday School classes, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

and continuing with the morning service at 10:45 a.m. A final "Victory Service" will conclude the conference at 6 p.m., with veteran missionaries Olsen and Zehr giving the final presentations.

The First Baptist Church places great emphasis on missions and currently supports 88 missionaries, stationed around the world and representing a host of missionary agencies and societies.

Top religious leaders face crucial issues of the 80s

The impact of religion in modern-day society will be examined by noted theologians and religious leaders when Mercy College of Detroit presents "Conversations on Religious Issues in the Eighties" at 7:30 p.m., Monday, March 16.

The combination panel and forum discussion will feature Auxiliary Bishop of Detroit Thomas Gumbleton, Yale University Associate Professor of Ethics Margaret Farley, RSM, Rabbi Ernst Conrad of Temple Kol Ami, West Bloomfield and Dr. Oscar Remick, president of Alma College.

Ronnie Clemmer of PM Magazine will moderate the panel and audience discussion.

The discussion will focus on critical issues facing religion in this decade and will examine the role of its institutions in determining values for society, particularly in relationship to the vital political, social, economic and international crises of our time.

Special emphasis will be placed on items of particular interest to metro-Detroit residents, including unemployment, inflation, affirmative action, organized labor, business, pollution, nuclear power, plus issues concerning sex, the family and women. The church of the future will also be discussed.

Bishop Gumbleton, who achieved national recognition when he represented the American Bishops in a Christmas 1979 visit to the hostages in Iran, has been a longtime advocate of social justice. He has taken an active role in current issues including poverty programs in the U.S., civil rights, questions of war and peace and the rights of the oppressed.

He is president of Bread for the World and of Pax Christi-USA; is a member of the Committee for J. P. Stevens Workers; and is an active supporter of the Michigan Welfare Reform Coalition.

Sr. Margaret Farley, a former assistant professor of philosophy at Mercy College, has been outspoken on matters pertaining to women and the church, including divorce, abortion, and sexual inequality. She has written several articles pertaining to her chief areas of interest: medical ethics, history of theological ethics and women's studies.

Rabbi Conrad, who founded Temple Kol Ami in 1966, has demonstrated his concern for various social problems including racial justice, poverty, the rights of the underprivileged and the limitation of constitutional rights through his work at Clinton Valley Center, the Michigan League of Human Ser-

Working for the church pays off in dividends

Who said no one ever does something for nothing?

According to A. Royce Snyman, the pastor of the Belleville Seventh-Day Adventist Church, that's not true.

Snyman reports that 13 persons from the church donated over 3,637 hours of their free labor in various projects during 1980. If they had all been paid the minimum wage of $3.10 per hour, their labor of love would have been worth $11,274.70. That's quite a sum when given free.

Among these activities were community service and disaster relief projects, school-aged Pathfinders collecting food for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, the distribution of those food baskets and other gifts, transportation and other helps to the elderly, Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking, women holding vegetarian cooking schools, Vacation Bible School, collecting funds, and others involved in personal evangelism and Bible Study.

Something for nothing?

"Not really," says Snyman. "Each of these members got something more valuable than money from performing these voluntary services. They received the satisfaction of honoring their Father in heaven while serving their brothers and sisters on earth."

Fire officials study woodburner problems

William (Jerry) Cabanaw, maintenance and training officer, was impressed with the faulty installation of wood-burning stoves.

"The main cause of fires is the improper installation of the stoves—there is usually not enough room between the stove and wall," he said. "Also, overloading the stove with too much wood is another danger."

Cabanaw, a 27-year veteran with the Inkster Fire Department, thought the seminar "was just terrific."

"One thing we found out is that they now have new fire extinguishers for putting out chimney fires," he said.

"It works like a flare. You uncup the top and that releases a chemical that helps extinguish the fire by removing the oxygen from the air. Yes, it was a very instructive and beneficial safety seminar."

Civilian deaths and injuries along with dollar loss to property has skyrocketed the past four years with the increased use of woodburning devices. Campbell distributed some very informative—and disappointing—figures to the 156 attendees concerning fire-related deaths and property damage.

Deaths have risen from none in the 1977-78 heating season to seven in 1978-79, to 18 last year and there have already been 14 deaths so far this winter season. Dollar loss to property directly attributed to woodburning devices was an estimated $2.5-million in 1977-78.

That dollar loss figure jumped to an estimated $4-million in 1978-79 and was figured at $6-million last heating season.

Campbell, whose job as public information officer has been abolished because of budget cuts, will no longer be able to put on seminars like the one held in Canton. He pointed out that his data indicates that improper care and maintenance is the major cause of fires with woodburning devices.

Improper care and maintenance caused 54 percent of last winter's fires with woodburning stoves, he said. Improper installation was responsible for 37 percent of the destructive blazes and other causes started the remaining nine percent.

Views On Dental Health

By SHERMAN H. KANE, D.D.S.

WISDOM TEETH

As babies, we start out with 20 primary (or baby) teeth. By the time we are adults, we shed these baby teeth and end up with a total of 32 teeth. Where do the extra 12 come from? These are our 12 permanent molar teeth. They develop behind the baby molars in three stages (of 4 each) during our youth.

The third set of molars are called wisdom teeth. They make their appearance between the age of 17 and 21. The one who invented this label equated "wisdom" (perhaps rashly) with physical maturity. Wisdom teeth often cause trouble.

The jaws may be so small that one or all of these wisdom teeth remain completely embedded in the jawbone. In other instances, only a portion of the crown may erupt and a flap of gum tissue may overlap much of the wisdom tooth enamel.

These embedded (impacted) or partially erupted teeth may become a source of trouble from pressure they produce on adjacent teeth or from infection that develops under the gum. Their surgical removal may be necessary.

Both young men are being sponsored by the American Legion Huron Valley Post #231 of New Boston.

Tax rebate

come amounted to $10,000 in 1980. They were billed $1,200 for property taxes. The credit is computed by multiplying their household income ($10,000) by 3.5 percent and then taking the difference between 3.5 percent income and the amount of taxes paid. So, 3.5 percent x $10,000 (income) $350; $1,200 (taxes) subtract $350 = $850 (direct cash rebate).

Any citizen who is a renter should substitute 17 percent of yearly rent for property taxes in the above computations. However, in all cases, the credit/refund cannot exceed $1,200.

WHY IS THE NURSE SO IMPORTANT?

The nurse may well be the person who gives the last comforting services to the dying patient. She can be a source of great comfort to his family as well.

The last days in a terminally ill patient's life present the nurse with one of the greatest, most difficult challenges in her nursing career, according to Nurses Claire Hoffman, Gladys Lipman, and Ella Thompson in their book, "Simplified Nursing."

The nurse knows and recognizes the needs of the patient. She learns to anticipate his requirements for comfort (i.e., a change of position, etc.). She is also alert to sense a patient's wish to talk to the clergyman or particular family members.

Nurses are schooled in dealing with the emotional stresses the patient (and family) is facing. Very often she takes special study classes in the care of very ill for the sake of the patient and her own well-being. Like the doctor, the clergyman and funeral director, she is a very important member of the care-giving team.

Focus on Photography

There are two basic types of light meters on the market today: the Reflected light type and the Incident type. Let's look at the two a little closer and find out how they work.

First let's see what the reflected light meter can do and how it does its job.

This metering system measures the light reflected by objects with in a certain area. This ability to measure light in particular area is an advantage in that it permits very accurate measurements when measuring various parts of a scene. If a scene contains strong contrast in brightness or color, it is preferable to measure that part of the scene which requires the most accurate exposure. In black and white or color negative films, this is a dark area which you will want to show the most detail in your final print. However, in color slide film the lighter areas are usually the best places to do your reading from. To get a proper exposure in such an area, get closer to the subject, but not so close that you get in the way of your own shadow.

In Incident light measurement the light is measured from the subject towards the camera. This measures all the light which faces the camera. Unlike a reflected light reading, neither brightness or color of the subject itself will be considered in this measurement. The incident light measurement is particularly useful for subject with strong contrasts of brightness or color.

When trying to photograph a subject that is in an inaccessible place try taking an incident measurement at a substitute spot which receives the same illumination as the subject. But instead of pointing your meter towards the camera, point it parallel to an imaginary line from the object to the camera.

Incidental light measurement at a substitute spot of equal illumination is also convenient for many regular outdoor scenes. Most times the spot where you are standing with your camera will get the same illumination as the scene which you intend to photograph, in this case just turn around and measure the light exactly opposite to the direction of the camera.

If you have a question on photography drop me a line at this newspaper and I will try to answer your question as soon as I can.

Major unemployment law changes go into effect

Beginning this week many of the state's more than 350,000 unemployed workers who are receiving unemployment benefits will receive a raise, as major changes in the state's unemployment insurance program take effect.

Some of the major changes, which were passed by the state legislature late last year and signed into law by Governor Milliken on December 30, 1980, affect:

- * Weekly unemployment benefit payments (generally increasing them);
- * Minimum requirements to qualify for benefits; and
- * Requalification requirements for those who either quit or are fired for misconduct from their jobs.

Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) Director S. Martin Taylor said that the law changes will increase a worker's weekly unemployment benefit rate to 70 percent of his or her after-tax earnings — up to a maximum of 58 percent of the state average weekly wage.

Taylor explained that the new maximum weekly benefit rate in 1981 will be $182. The new weekly minimums will be $41 for those who are single and $43 for those who are married.

Under the old law the benefit rate was determined by the worker's average weekly wage and the number of dependents claimed. Benefits ranged from a minimum of $16 per week to a maximum $136 per week for a worker with four or more dependents.

Taylor said his agency will review all unemployment claims, beginning Monday, and adjust them to reflect the new rates. In no case will a worker receive an amount less than what he receives under the old law, he said.

To compute the new weekly benefit rates, the MESC will determine each claimant's average weekly wage after taxes. Taylor said the after tax earnings will be calculated by subtracting from an individual's average weekly wage a reasonable approximation of the weekly amount required to be withheld by the employer based on dependents and exemptions for income taxes and for old age and survivor's disability taxes.

In early February, MESC began collecting from new and existing claimants information about their marital status, dependents and exemptions to begin the process of determining new benefit rates.

Another major change in the law alters the minimum requirements for receiving unemployment benefits. The new law requires a person to work for at least 18 weeks during the 52 weeks prior to applying for benefits. During each of those weeks, the worker must earn at least $67 — 20 times the state's minimum hourly wage which is $3.35 an hour.

Under the old law, a worker had to work 14 weeks earning more than $25 a week within the 52-week period prior to filing a claim.

Those who voluntarily quit or are fired for misconduct, minor theft or wilful destruction of property face disqualification from benefits. If a worker quits or is fired, the only way he can receive benefits is to go back to work, Taylor said. According to the new law a worker must work and

Water line break shifts class schedule

As a result of a water line break at the New Boston School, the Senior Citizens program was moved to the Renton Junior High.

Rooms are available in the junior high because of the five-period day that has operated in the district for the past two years as a result of staff reduction during budget cutting.

The nutrition program continues to meet in the Home Economics room, with seating for 60 persons. The upholstery classes and all the machinery was moved to the woodshop classroom. The classroom is well lighted, and is very large with plenty of individual work space.

The other classes (needlecraft, english, math, science, homecrafts, humanities, and history-travel) all meet in the artroom. The room is large and has work tables and sinks for craft work.

Senior citizens are welcome and encouraged to attend the nutrition program to enjoy the meals and the fellowship. They are also encouraged to attend the classes. For information regarding any of the above, call 782-2483, and ask for senior citizens between the hours of 10:00 and 2:00 Monday through Friday.

Cady's spelling champ

The fifth grades at Miller Elementary in New Boston held its annual spelling bee recently and the school winner is Christy Cady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Cady of Willow Road.

The runner-up was Debbie Aquino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Aquino of Waltz Rd.

The winning word was "chorus".

There were 30, fifth grade students, who took part in the final school bee.

Christy will participate in the district bee which will be held on March 10 at Riverside Elementary School.

When you vaccinate your pet

Many owners are confused as to when and what vaccinations they should have given to their dogs and cats.

The following questions are most often asked: At what age should vaccines be started? How long to the different types of vaccines last? Do animals need vaccines all of their lives? The following short explanations will hopefully lessen your possible confusion.

Puppies can be started on a series of distemper vaccinations as early as six weeks of age. A series of vaccinations is given because the dog's immune system is not mature enough to have developed a long-lasting resistance to infection.

The last distemper vaccination of the series is given at 12 to 14 weeks of age. If your dog was less than 12 weeks old when it received its last distemper vaccination, it needs another vaccination. After your dog has received its final vaccination of the puppy series, it should receive a booster yearly thereafter to continue this protection.

If your dog has not had a distemper vaccination within the last year, it needs a vaccination now to protect it from a possible fatal infection from the distemper virus.

Along with the distemper vaccination, your dog can also be vaccinated for hepatitis, leptospirosis, and parainfluenza (kennel cough). An annual re-vaccination for these contagious diseases is recommended. The parvovirus vaccination can also be given with the series of distemper vaccinations. The vaccination should be repeated at six months of age and then yearly for proper protection.

Your dog's first rabies vaccination can be given at three to six months of age. The first vaccination will last one year because the dog is less than one year old. Second and succeeding rabies vaccinations may last up to three years for dogs over a year of age.

In the cat, the first rabies vaccination can be given from three to six months of age, as in the dog. However, the rabies vaccination in the cat lasts for one year no matter how old the cat is. Each year the cat should receive another rabies vaccination to continue its resistance.

Kittens can be started on vaccinations as early as six to eight weeks of age. The feline distemper vaccination is given in a series and the last vaccination is given at 12 to 14 weeks of age. The distemper vaccination will last one year after the kitten series is completed and an annual booster is recommended.

In the cat, the upper respiratory vaccines of rhinotracheitis and calici virus can be given with the distemper series and an annual re-vaccination is recommended.

Since the younger and older animals are less resistant to infection than those of young adulthood, vaccinations should be given throughout the lifetime of your pet. If you are uncertain as to the last vaccination your cat or dog received, contact your veterinarian to verify your pet's records.

earn an amount that is either:

- * Seven times the claimant's potential weekly benefit rate with the employer involved in the disqualification; or
- * Seven times the state's minimum hourly wage times 40 (7 x $3.35 x 40 $938), whichever is less.

Under the old law, a worker could re-qualify for jobless benefits after quitting or being discharged for misconduct, by serving a 13-week requalification period and losing 13 weeks of benefits. If they were fired for minor theft or willful destruction of property, the penalty was for 12 weeks.

Other major changes in the state unemployment law allow a new worker a 30-day trial period; affect eligibility for benefits when a misconduct discharge is charged to a disciplinary layoff; and exempt students from a waiver of seeking work.

To implement the law changes, Taylor said his agency launched a massive training program to instruct MESOC staff about the changes and their resulting impacts on agency procedures. The MESOC also began updating forms and informational booklets to employers and claimants, and started collecting additional information from claimants.

A pamphlet describing the law's major changes is now available to the public through MESOC offices statewide.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP INDUSTRIAL WASTE SURCHARGE ORDINANCE 2-24-81

TOWNSHIP OF VAN BUREN, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN

An Ordinance to enable the Township of Van Buren, Wayne County, Michigan to comply with the requirements of Federal Law-Public Act 92-500, and applicable federal regulations, and to comply with the requirements of the Settlement Agreement of the United States of America -vs- City of Detroit, et al, Civil Action #771100, United States District Court, Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, and further to require users of the public wastewater system to pay a surcharge which reflects the commercial and industrial users equitable share of the costs of wastewater treatment in excess of the strength of domestic sewage.

IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE TOWNSHIP OF VAN BUREN, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN:

SECTION I

PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVE:

This Ordinance has as its purpose the protection of public health and safety and because of the widely varying quality characteristics of the sewage discharged by different users of the public sewer and the publicly owned treatment works, it is the objective of this Ordinance to impose sewage charges which reflect the cost of treating sewage strength factors as well as sewage volume. These charges to commercial and industrial users will be in the form of a payment called a surcharge and will reflect industries' equitable costs of wastewater treatment in excess of the strength of domestic sewage. Sewage charges will be based on a volume rate and surcharge based on volume of discharge and the strength of BOD, suspended solids and phosphorus or other pollutants present in the wastewater. In the event other pollutants are required to be surcharged under this Ordinance, authorized variances, or by special arrangement with the owner of the publicly owned treatment works the rules and regulations adopted herein will apply, said rules and regulations being on file with the Township Clerk (or other appropriate municipal officer).

SECTION II

AUTHORITY:

This Ordinance is adopted pursuant to and in accordance with the requirements of Federal Law-Public Act 92-500, and applicable Federal Regulations, the requirements of the Settlement Agreement in United States of America -vs- City of Detroit, et al, Civil Action #771100.

SECTION III

DEFINITIONS:

Unless the context specifically indicates otherwise, the meaning of the terms used in this Ordinance shall be as follows:

A. Biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) shall mean the quantity of oxygen utilized in the biochemical oxidation of organic matter under standard laboratory procedure, five (5) days at 20 degrees centigrade expressed in terms of weight and concentration (milligrams per liter (MG/L), as measured by standard methods.

B. "Commercial User" shall mean all non-domestic sources of indirect discharge other than industrial users, as defined herein including but not limited to the following. A publicly or privately owned facility where persons are engaged in the exchange or sale of goods or services, hospitals, retail establishments, schools and facilities operated by local and state governments.

C. "Indirect Discharge" shall mean the discharge or the introduction of non-domestic pollutants from any source regulated under Section 307 (b) or (c) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, P.L. 92-500, as amended into the public waste treatment system.

D. "Industrial User" shall mean a source of indirect discharge under regulations issued pursuant to Section 402, of the Act, (33 USC 1342), which source originates from, but is not limited to, facilities engaged in industry, manufacturing, business, trade or research, including the development, recovery or processing of natural resources.

E. "Industrial Waste" shall mean any liquid, solid or gaseous waste or form of energy or combination thereof resulting from any process of industry, manufacturing, business, trade or research, including the development, recovery or processing of natural resources.

F. "P" means Phosphorous in the waste expressed in terms of milligrams per liter (P.P.M.)

G. "Pollutant" shall mean any dredged spoil, solid waste, incinerator residue, sewage, garbage, sewage sludge, munitions chemical wastes, biological materials, radioactive materials, heat, wrecked or discarded equipment, rock, sand, cellar dirt and industrial, municipal, and agricultural waste discharged into water.

H. "Public Sewer" shall mean a common sewer controlled by a governmental agency or public utility.

I. "Suspended Solids" shall mean the total suspended matter that floats on the surface of, or is suspended in, water, wastewater or other liquids, and which is removable by laboratory filtering as measured according to standard methods.

J. "Wastewater" or "Sewage" shall mean spent water which may be a combination of the liquid and water-carried wastes from residences, commercial buildings, industrial plants, institutions, or other land uses, including drainage water inadvertently present in said waste.

K. "Wastewater System" or "Sewer System" shall mean any part, or all, of the property, structures, equipment, sewers, materials and/or appurtenances used in conjunction with the collection and disposal of wastewater, including the publicly owned treatment work (POTW).

SECTION IV

It is ordained that the Schedule of Industrial Waste Pollutant Strength Surcharges is hereby adopted and made effective for users of the wastewater system of the Township of Van Buren. Said surcharges to be computed as follows:

COMPUTATION OF INDUSTRIAL WASTE POLLUTANT STRENGTH SURCHARGE

The industrial waste pollutant strength surcharge shall be computed in accordance with the following formula:

$$SC = 0.0624 V a (BOD-250) + b (TSS-300) + c (P-12)$$

WHERE:

SC = Pollutant strength surcharge fee in dollars for the billing period.

V = Volume of waste discharged in the billing period in Mcf (1000 cubic feet).

"BOD" = Five-day biochemical oxygen demand of the waste expressed in milligrams per liter (ppm).

"TSS" = Total suspended solids in the waste expressed in milligrams per liter (ppm).

"P" = Phosphorus in the waste expressed in milligrams per liter (ppm).

a, b, c = Surcharge rates, $/pound for treating BOD, TSS, and P respectively.

0.0624 = Factor which converts Mcf to MM lbs.

a = $0.082/pound
b = $0.083/pound
c = $1.321/pound

For purposes of surcharge computation, the values of pollutant strengths shall not be less than the allowable values, the allowable values are:

BOD - 300
TSS - 250
P - 12

The total sewage charge for a particular industry would be the sum of the base flow charge and the surcharge would be calculated from the following formula:

$$UC = V (R) + SC$$

WHERE:

UC = Total sewerage charge for the billing period in dollars.

V = Volume of waste discharged in billing period of Mcf.

R = Basic flow sewerage rate if (10,000 gallons) $8.91. Balance of water consumed $0.79 per thousand gallons effective February 24, 1981.

SC = Surcharge in dollars as computed above.

SECTION V

STANDARDS AND REGULATIONS:

In accordance with the basic Service Agreement between Van Buren Township, the County of Wayne and the Wayne County Board of Public Works or other properly designated agent of the County of Wayne named pursuant to Public Acts 342, 1939, and 185, 1957, this Ordinance provides that any person, firm, or corporation discharging wastewater into the publicly owned sewer system shall comply with the standards, rules and regulations controlling the quality or quantity of discharge of wastewater into said system. Said standards, rules and regulations shall be as established from time to time by the County and/or its designated agent.

SECTION VI

SEVERABILITY:

If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of the Ordinance is for and reason held to be invalid or unconstitutional, the invalidity or unconstitutionality of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the remaining provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION VII

REPEALER CLAUSE:

Any and all resolutions, ordinances or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are, to the extent of such conflict repealed.

SECTION VIII

EFFECTIVE DATE:

This Ordinance shall have immediate effect.

Ambulance rates are out of reach

Inkster councilmen, concerned over the rapidly alarming number of rescue calls "for bloody fingers" and "headaches," moved to curtail such runs by hiking the price each citizen will have to pay for the ambulance service.

The council, arguing that "neighboring communities charge much more than we do," hiked the prices for such services and trips to the hospital from $30 per resident to $60 and from $35 for a non-resident to $80.

We recognize that costs for operating such a service, especially with the costs of gasoline climbing each day and labor costs soaring, is indeed in need of adjustments, however, the increase appears to be way out of line with what the area fire departments are charging.

In Wayne, for example, there is a $10 across the board (resident and non-resident) charge for such service, while Westland charges $35 and $50 respectively.

We will acknowledge that private ambulance services charge between $150 and $200 for such services, however, during times of extreme emergencies few have time to find such services — they run to the telephone and dial 911 for help.

Although most insurance carriers pick up the charge for emergencies, we would urge the Inkster council to take another look at its rate structure and bring it in line with those in surrounding communities.

The Romulus incident shows 'we're in trouble'

This state's inability to solve its unemployment picture was never so evident than last week when some 400 qualified police officers appeared at the Romulus City Hall in hopes of finding jobs on a non-existent police force.

Romulus, in the midst of a controversy with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners over police protection, is planning to create its own police department, if the county fails to find the money to keep the Sheriff's Road Patrol in existence.

The county provides, for a fee, law enforcement for Romulus and many of the communities in the area.

But the alarming numbers of people who are forced into the unemployment lines in the state is a problem that must be addressed now by our elected officials, private industry and those in power.

A man may be able to hold his head up when he's out of work for a day or a month, but when the problem occurs month after month, it takes its toll on him, his family and our society.

There are too many good people out of work, and it's unacceptable to us that there are no solutions.

Government must loosen the chains they have placed around industry's head in the form of taxes; those tax dollars can create jobs and must not be spent in supporting dictatorships in South America and in Europe.

The temptation to say that "the poor have been with us always" may be a truism, but to turn our back on them, on the unemployed can, as history has proven, have devastating effects.

Ask Carol Premo

Teen-age pregnancy causes heartache

By CAROL PREMO, Ph.D.

DEAR CAROL,

My daughter is 14-years-old and pregnant. She has turned to me for help. Needless to say I wish she had consulted me a bit earlier.

I have a very difficult moral decision to make. I have always believed abortion (and birth control) is wrong, that a life is sacred at the moment of conception, having a soul and a right to life. I have contributed both time and money to the right to life movement.

Now I have a 14-year-old who is much too young to bear a child and be a good mother. If she has the child and keeps it, she will lose the rest of her childhood and miss most of the experiences of the young adult to explore the world.

I want her to have a full life but I also cannot advocate the killing of the life within her.

I know it is too late for regrets I have about not recognizing that she was involved with a boy. I also know that if it were someone else's daughter, I would say there was no choice but to have the child.

I told my daughter to pray for guidance for the strength to do what was right. I know God would not condone the murder of a child.

I also told her I would help her and support her and that she and her child would have a home with me until they were able to go out on their own.

I don't know what to do now.

Soon everyone will know. I will be a laughing stock of my church. I will never be able to hold my head up again. It's fine and good that I told my daughter I would support her through all this, but who is going to support me through this disaster.

Mother

Dear Mother,

Both of you need immediate counseling.

This is a difficult situation and there are no easy solutions or answers. However, there are trained professionals who specialize in just such problems.

I strongly suggest that you consult with them as there are many options available (keeping the child, abortion, adoption, maternity homes) and each case should be considered individually.

Since you mention your church and strong religious views (although you do not tell me your denomination) you might feel better talking with someone familiar with your views.

I suggest that you call the Unwed Parent Department of Catholic Social Services of Wayne County. The phone number is 883-2100. If you do not wish to see them, they will be more than happy to refer you to the appropriate agency. Obviously, don't wait too long on this one.

DEAR CAROL,

I bitterly resent these dolly domestic type letters on how to deal with the high cost of life.

All they ever talk about is nickel and dime savings, nothing that makes a very big difference. So what if you save 3 percent on this, 5 percent on that, etc.

All you really need is a good paying job with lots of overtime, like the car factories used to be. That would solve everybody's problems. If you make enough money you don't have to sweat the small stuff.

Just get rid of all those expensive government standards, ban foreign imports and fine everyone yearly for owning a foreign car.

If the car industry turns around, all will be well again and people can once again afford the things they need.

Worker

Dear Worker,

Such insight! How is it you haven't been selected to lead our country out of this economic crisis. With easy solutions like yours, all problems are a snap. Maybe next you could figure out what to do about the weather.

Will Circuit Judge Victor Baum go down in the history books as some sort of Ivan the Terrible?

Some Wayne County commissioners believe so. Judge Baum's the man who ordered the Board of Commissioners and representatives of Local 502 of the National Union of Police Officers to get down to business and end the impasse that has 242 patrol officers going through some revolving doors — one day working, the next day not.

The commissioners say the county just doesn't have the money to keep the 242 deputies on the payroll. They had ordered the layoff of the officers on Feb. 1, but the court a la Baum said that they can't do that.

"But Judge Baum just doesn't understand," said Commissioner Kay Beard of Inkster, "the monies just aren't there. We don't have the money to pay these officers. When you don't have the money, there is nothing anyone can do about it."

Mrs. Beard felt that the deputies and their negotiating team missed the boat when they rejected their own proposals.

"We thought we had the solution when they agreed to laying off some 35 to 40 temporary help at the jail," Beard said, "but the deputies didn't go for that."

"Ironically, the temporary help is being paid, but these deputies, because of the lack of money, aren't."

What happens when these deputies begin missing a few mortgage payments and the imperial courts continue to order that they must remain on the job, even though most are being forgotten on pay day?

"It's an exasperating situation," Mrs. Beard said, "and I really don't know what will happen. But I know one thing and that is the county just doesn't have the money. The money isn't there."

Stay tuned, the final chapter should be an interesting one.

On a different note, Mrs. Beard did reveal that the commissioners did pass a resolution honoring Associated Newspapers' columnist, Jane Ross, who passed away last month.

"Mrs. Ross served this community and the county for many years," Mrs. Beard said. "She was the hub of political activity and served in a variety of ways to help better each and every life. She was read by all of us."

"And, even though we may at times disagreed with what she wrote," Mrs. Beard continued, "I sincerely believe she tried to give us an honest viewpoint of what was happening. She will be missed by all of us."

Diversity in newspaper industry key to society

By CARL LEVIN
U.S. Senator

In a country that often credits its free press for helping to maintain an effective democracy, the mere existence of newspapers is not adequate assurance that the press will fulfill its vital watchdog role.

Diversity in the newspaper industry is important so that the American public is presented with choices and not limited to a few corporate approved viewpoints, as in many totalitarian countries where governments often become the corporations using newspapers as a means of propaganda.

Diversity is defined by the dictionary as "a point of difference." In the newspaper industry, this difference emerges in the philosophies, politics, and personalities of its editors and publishers. It begins with the size of a publication and the audience for which it writes, both of which become the foundation for the paper's individual style and character.

There are large metropolitan publications that cater to a sophisticated readership interested more in world affairs than local events, mid-sized publications that offer a smattering of everything, and small, local newspapers that, according to publisher William Wasserman, focus on the "day-by-day nitty gritty of town life." In addition, every newspaper has its own political persuasion, philosophical approach toward presenting news, and personal voice, all of which determine who will read it.

The presence of strong, independent publishers is essential to maintaining variety in the newspaper industry. It assures the public of, if not a completely objective presentation of the news, a range of information varying according to each newspaper's priorities, about which people can formulate their own views.

A recent trend in the newspaper publishing industry, however, threatens the essential presence of independent papers. As the economy worsens, advertisements become increasingly difficult to obtain, making it financially impossible for publishers to handle the costly task of putting out a newspaper. Small newspapers, most of which rely on small businesses for their funding, are the hardest hit by this trend. One such paper, the Highwater Mark, of Eton Rapids, Michigan, has come to my attention.

After a 115-year history of publishing local news in the Eton Rapids area, the small weekly paper is presently losing money because the small businesses that provide much of its advertising are also having financial troubles. As a result, the Highwater Mark will most likely either fold or be picked up by one of the increasing number of newspaper chains that have become a threat to editorial independence in the newspaper industry.

Either way, the Highwater Mark will become a casualty of the alarming trend that could narrow the amount of diversity in the press unless the community rescues it.

If the people of the Eton Rapids area or any other area support their local papers with increased subscriptions, advertising will become more profitable to troubled businesses, who will then be more willing to spend money on ads.

By saving the Highwater Mark and other small papers in similar dilemmas, the community will also save its own right to choose what it wants to read because this other choice will still be there. It is, in the long run, up to the public whether they will be the beneficiaries of no newspaper, a newspaper whose editorial policies are dictated by profit-conscious corporate chains, or an independent newspaper whose publisher is motivated by good journalism standards.

Where's stories on volleyball?

EDITOR — As parents, a teacher, and subscribers of the Associated Newspapers' Eagle edition, we are very disappointed in your coverage of girls high school athletics.

Although our daughter has graduated, we would have enjoyed coverage of her accomplishments as well as our sons.

The current point in case is the Wayne Memorial volleyball team which is one of the top ranked teams in the state, getting no coverage while the boys basketball teams at both Glenn & Wayne are given coverage and pictures even when they lose.

Wayne's volleyball team has won the Edsel Ford tournament, come in 2nd at the Canton tourney and won the Schoolcraft Invitational last Saturday for the second year in a row as well as being undefeated in league play.

After all, with Title IX in the schools girls must participate in 50% of the sports programs and we as subscribers and patrons of your newspaper do have daughters as well as sons playing — and playing — and playing extremely well.

Secondly, in this time of inflation and high taxes, we feel people would enjoy reading about some positive contributions our teachers and schools are making with our children. Your paper could show support for our school system in a very concrete and visible way.

Finally, as subscribers to your paper we feel adequate coverage of girls' sports would sell newspapers not only to concerned parents and friends of the two local high schools but also to the growing number of young adults who participate in volleyball at Westland Community Center and mixed volleyball in Wayne on Thursday nights, as well as women's volleyball leagues in both cities.

We hope you will reconsider and change your policy in this matter and give these girls and their coaches the recognition they are due.

Sincerely,

Dick & Carolyn Reynolds

More about Public Act 114

EDITOR — Public Act 114 of 1979, the so-called "equalization by class" law, was an attempt by the Legislature to inject a needed note of equity into the property tax assessment system. Because the law has of late received considerable attention, I would like to take this opportunity to comment.

The Michigan Constitution requires that all real and personal property be assessed uniformly at a rate not to exceed 50% of its true cash value. The statute, on the other hand, requires that all property be assessed at the 50% level. However, ample evidence exists that both constitutional and statutory requirements are being violated.

Even though detailed specifications govern the assessment procedures, implementation of those practices frequently lacks equity. It was the Legislature's intent — indeed, its duty — to address this problem, and it chose to do so through equalization by class. It was also the legislative intent to achieve reform over a period of time, and this is why implementation of Public Act 114 was delayed until 1981.

When the issue was being debated, both in committee and on the floor, the Legislature relied heavily on information provided by the Department of Treasury. The Department cited many examples of assessment inequities within and between classes of property.

Further, they showed that when attempts were made to apply an equalization factor to all classes of property, the inequities were only compounded.

The Department also pointed out that while agricultural and residential property was generally assessed at, or slightly below 50% of value, commercial and industrial property was grossly underassessed. While an equalization factor was applied across the board, agricultural and residential property became over-assessed (from 67% to 83% of market value), and commercial and industrial property remained underassessed or, at best, at the 50% level.

From this data it was felt that agricultural and residential property owners would benefit most from equalization by class. The fact that the Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan Association of Counties supported the bill seemed to confirm the accuracy of Treasury's data. But now, as more information becomes available, it is evident that this is not the case, and it is the agricultural and residential property owners who will bear the brunt of equalization by class.

Legislation has been introduced in both the Senate and the House which, if enacted, will delay implementation of Public Act 114 for a few years. Such a delay will enable local assessors to gradually adjust their assessment rolls. But more importantly, a delay would allow the Legislature additional time to closely study the total property tax system and develop ways to address the inequities without forcing any one group of taxpayers to assume an unfair burden.

Clearly, the Legislature cannot ignore the issue of poor property tax administration and permit present inequities to continue unchecked. To do so constitutes ignoring its responsibility to uphold the constitution and laws of the state. However, it is just as clear that the Legislature cannot correct a problem which has resulted from years of faulty assessment practices in just a few short months. Any transition must be gradual.

While I remain committed to the goal of improving the state's property tax system, I believe strongly that the change must not be abrupt. Therefore, it is my intent to support legislative efforts to delay implementation of the equalization by class law.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM FAUST
Senate Majority Leader

The subway and SEMTA

EDITOR — After much consideration and studies of other metro subways, and ties-in with the Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's antics of irresponsible spending, it must be concluded that he merely and in vanity, wants further his name emblazoned on all of the new cars of the proposed subway.

Being denied the prestige of decorating namefully all of SEMTA buses, a subway will provide an outlet for his ego. Aren't there alternatives less costly than such unreal visions?

course...and that stimulating device is love and the absolute 'know' that the illness is not terminal, or rather that it is not necessarily terminal, unless the patient has indeed, lived out his program.

But I believe the patient knows somewhere deep down within himself, whether he has not yet lived out that program and when that knowledge is supported by reaching, loving thoughts by those around him, then he takes hold and makes the reversal and gets well.

Each volunteer who has come to this house has shown that love...that caring! And their support of my sister as she tends with love this husband who is fighting the biggest battle of his life, may be the support which will turn the tide.

God will it so!

Reflections

'The Hospice Movement'

HEMET, CALIFORNIA — Let me tell you about the Hospice Movement. Many of you may already know about it, and perhaps, many more of you may have even taken advantage of the loving service of this growing movement.

In 1967, Dr. Cicely Saunders of England felt that terminally ill people should have some control over their living as well as their dying and she believed that in order to be able to make even the last days of a person's life meaningful, the patient needed a strong support system.

But the patient wasn't the only concern of Dr. Saunders. The patients' family came in for her concern as well, and thus began the Hospice Movement.

The hospice provides a setting for terminally ill persons to continue to interact, remain active and live meaningful lives right up to the end of those lives.

"Being able to participate in communal activities is most important," says Dr. Vanderpool, assistant professor of the Institute for the Medical Humanities. "Terminally ill persons should be able to have parties, sing hymns and clap their hands if they want to. That kind of activity is almost unheard of, and probably uncalled for, in hospitals, but it is possible in the hospice."

According to an article in "Medical News" there are 10 hospice programs active in the United States and 80 more are in planning stages. According to the article the goal of the hospice is not endless prolonging of life but to insure that what life remains is pain-free, comfortable and satisfying. The hospice movement feels the family is the basic care unit and centers the caring process in the home. What the hospice movement actually tries to do is to place death and dying in a more natural context.

But that which interested me the most about this movement is the love that emanates from those volunteers who have been coming to this home of my sister's. They bathe Glenn, talk with him, laugh with him, give him B-12 shots, and then just sit around and be family for a spell.

The whole thing is definitely upbeat.

Arlene Benson, the Executive Director of Hospice here in Hemet, said when she came, that they have seen miracles happen with patients. Men and women who had been relegated to the burying ground and all that was holding them back was something within themselves that whispered they weren't ready to go yet, have gained a new lease on life...their cancers have gone in remission and they can walk out and look at the eternal mountains and greet the sun coming over those mountains, knowing they are going to live to see that miracle for many more days.

And what does it? What causes this miracle? I have a theory, and maybe the hospice people have this theory, too. That theory is that within each one of us is perhaps a programming device that actually has predestined the number of days we live on this earth. If something shows up in our lives (such as cancer) which is likely to throw that program off, there has to be a stimulating device which turns that program back to its

Who are the beautiful people?

Spare me, O Lord, from the Darlings, the Ears, the Tish Jetts, the Marj Levins...all those simple "news" reporters who gush, ad nauseum, about the wonderfulness of the "Beautiful People".

I'm sick of silly stories about the oh-so-clever rich—the fashionable, alluring, sexy (?) social butterflies in this town.

If you'll allow me to enlighten, folks, this is Detroit in the 1980's.

This is standing in the unemployment line with thousands—yes, thousands—of other out-of-workers.

This is fighting for the only home you've known because one of the "Big Four" decides your old, established, densely populated neighborhood is the perfect place for a factory.

This is having to pay for your groceries with food stamps, trying to look appropriately embarrassed because Judd Arnett says what is this world coming to when people just hand over the stamps as though it's the most normal thing in the world.

The customer smiles, the cashier smiles, the people around them barely pay attention anymore, much less sneer...Judd thinks the least they could all do is act a little embarrassed about it.

It's time, Tish and Marj and Darling—and, yes, even you, Judd—to come out of the Tinsel Tower.

You are the ones who should be embarrassed. You are anachronisms reporting on an anachronistic society. It just doesn't play anymore. Not in the 80's. Not in Detroit.

What's more, it's offensive.

There's a real world out there, people, and it isn't one where you worry about being on the best-dressed list, it's worrying about having a winter coat...It isn't worrying about whether your decorator will get the color scheme right, it's worrying about whether you're going to be able to keep your house...It isn't worrying about a tea to benefit the Symphony,

Reply to 'crossroads'

EDITOR — I would like to comment on your recent editorial depicting the "City of Wayne as at a Crossroads."

You intimate that only the city officials and council have an interest in what is best for this community and our families, that anyone who resists change does so because he just doesn't know any better.

Unfortunately, the community has experienced several changes in the past which have done little to enhance Wayne's image or to improve the quality of life for its residents.

The same thing was said about people who resisted those changes. As for progress being assigned to a few men of vision. Some of these foresighted individuals have been actively engaged in controlling the destiny of Wayne for the past several years.

I would hardly classify an individual who is about to lose his home as ignorant just because he protests. A better term might be desperate. I imagine he feels like some of those in Poletown, probably more so. Those in Poletown are aware that their sacrifice will accomplish more than the creation of an additional parking lot.

As for "many of us not understanding what is going on," you may be right. On Sept. 16th of last year the electors of the city of Wayne rejected a proposal by the city to expend four and a half million dollars for improvements at the Wayne Community Center.

This project was termed important enough to call for a special election and involved construction of a new swimming pool, bath house, etc., to be financed by a levy of additional property taxes.

Within five months of that election we are now being told that the City has the funds available (without additional tax levies) to undertake a multi-million dollar project.

However, instead of using this money for a pool, the City officials are now in the process of developing a plan to expend these funds on an attempt to revitalize Downtown Wayne.

I, for one, admit to not understanding what is going on and why this sudden change in priorities on the part of the City Council.

You remark that it doesn't cost anything to listen and that's all our city officials are asking. Likewise, our City Council should be attentive to the voice of its citizens. We have asked several times that the matter of Downtown Development be settled in a Democratic matter — by referendum.

Why does the council persist in ducking the issue?

It seems that the people who refused to spend property taxes on a new swimming pool should now get a chance to approve spending tax money on Downtown improvements.

Strangers who helped stranger

EDITOR — I would like to thank the two Belleville High School girls who came to my aid on the morning of February 2nd when I fell on the ice, in the high school parking lot and hit my head.

One of the girls stayed with me while the other one went for help. My head was cut and bleeding quite badly and I was pretty dazed.

I don't know what would have happened to me if these two young ladies had not taken the time to help. I have been unable to find out who they are and would not be able to recognize them if I saw them so I will thank them here.

They are fine girls and a good example of the great young people we have in Belleville and Van Buren Township. Their families should be very proud of them.

I would also like to thank the assistant principal, Mr. Tabor, the P.E. teacher, Mrs. Vincent and the security guard, "Walter," for their help and concern at this time.

CARE needs your help

EDITOR — The plight of the people of Cambodia no longer makes the nightly news. Thus, one of the most spectacular stories of the century needs to be told. Never have so many people, countries and organizations joined in one gigantic effort to save an entire race of people from genocide!

Cambodia is now alive with markets, the streets bustle with cars, trucks and people. The currency, reintroduced last March, seems stable. (Until then rice was used as currency.) The new government boasts that 1.4 million children are enrolled in primary school, while 19,000 attend secondary school. A rice crop was planted that will yield 600,000 tons of milled rice, but 200,000 or more tons still need to be imported.

Small as these strides may appear, it is a far cry from a country where 1-3 million Cambodians were killed or died from disease, starvation.

To Kampuchean refugees CARE provided food, medicine, medical personnel and packages containing basic items such as: soap, towels, cloth sewing kits.

Small as these strides may appear, it is a far cry from a country where 1-3 million Cambodians were killed or died from disease, starvation.

To Kampuchean refugees CARE provided food, medicine, medical personnel and packages containing basic items such as: soap, towels, clothsewing kits, etc. A second group of refugees required temporary assistance before returning to Cambodia. To them, CARE distributed 12,000 tons of rice seed to help them successfully re-enter the agricultural economy. In the past 14 months, CARE Thailand spent $6.8 million, and of that sum, 93% was spent on material and equipment and only 7% spent on personnel, transportation and administration.

For the past several years, CARE has conducted its efforts within the Thailand border, but recently we were invited by the Cambodian government to begin programs in the capitol, Phnom Penh.

This nation still has a long way to go. With the help of the diligent and creative Cambodian people and organization such as CARE, they are coming closer to the peace and security of which they have been deprived so long.

'Thank you'

from Westland

EDITOR — Thank you for the outstanding support of our February 10 Bingo with the proceeds going to the 33rd Annual National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament. Three hundred and four bingo players showed up, which enabled us to raise in excess of $1300 for the tournament which will be hosted in Westland.

Also, a special thanks to the super people at the Wayne Ford Civic League who helped organize and run the bingo. The kitchen crew should also be lauded for its outstanding effort in putting out an excellent $1.00 dinner. A very special thank you must be extended to Alberta and Charles, who without their assistance the Bingo would not have been successful.

Finally, I hope that all citizens of Westland and the area will continue to support the 33rd Annual National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament which will feature the top four wheelchair basketball teams in the country. This extravaganza will be held April 3 & 4, 1981 at Westland John Glenn High School.

'Amillion' for athletics

EDITOR — Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department recently held their 2nd annual Millionaires party at Van Buren Township Hall. Over $1600 was raised to help develop two more softball fields at Van Buren Park.

This party was only successful because of the hard work of some 50 individual softball players and recreation department staff. Hopefully, fund raisers such as our annual Millionaires Party will continue, and that these two new softball fields are just a beginning phase of development for Van Buren Township Recreational facilities.

Mahalak retains key House finance post

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D) Romulus has been reappointed to the House Committee on Appropriations for the 1981-82 session of the Legislature.

Appropriations is considered the top committee assignment in the House. Because of the responsibilities and workload involved, those members appointed to the committee traditionally receive no other standing committee assignments.

Mahalak's appointment to Appropriations was announced by House Speaker Bobby D. Crim who makes all House Committee assignments. "Representative Mahalak does an outstanding job as a member of the House Appropriations Committee and I feel that he should serve again," Crim said.

"I know that his experience, ability and capacity for hard work will continue to be an asset on the Appropriations Committee. I have every confidence in him."

Mahalak was also named as Chairman of the Military and Veterans Affairs Subcommittee. He was also assigned to the Subcommittee on Agriculture and the Subcommittee on Natural Resources. On these Committees he will serve as Vice Chairman. He is a member of the Government Computers Committee.

House and Senate Appropriations Committees write the state budget and handle all bills involving the expenditure of state funds.

Mahalak said, "Because of the State's economic problems and the need to write a tight state budget and carefully watch over state spending the work of the Appropriations Committee will be especially challenging this session of the Legislature."

"I feel that this 1981-82 session will be especially exciting because of two new Committee assignments, Agriculture and Natural Resources," Mahalak said.

Early this year he was elected to the leadership position of majority floor whip.

A Whip sees the members of his party are on the floor for important votes. He works closely with the House Speaker.

Mahalak was recently reelected to his ninth two-year term in the House.

Mahalak represents the 38th House District, which includes areas of Monroe County and parts of the Cities of Taylor, Romulus and Wayne and the Townships of Huron and Sumpter in Wayne County.

STATE REP. MAHALAK

Billiard show set Friday

Schoolcraft College will host a billiard exhibition by Nick Varner, the 1980 World Pocket Billiard Champion and the BCA National 8-Ball Champion on Friday, at 8 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

Varner began playing pool at the age of five when his father bought a pool hall.

The Owensboro, Kentucky native has been a steadily ascending star on the professional scene since he won the last of his two ACU-I Intercollegiate championships in 1970.

As a professional, Varner's credentials include winning the 1972 Minnesota Fats Challenge Match, the 1974 and 1976 Midwest Open, the 1975 Texas and Kentucky Opens, the 1980 Illinois and Kentucky Derby Opens. To date Varner's lifetime high run is 307.

Pocket billiards is expected to be one of the fastest growing activities of the 1980s. According to the Nielson ratings, pocket billiards ranks as the number two participation sport in the nation with more than 40 million players.

Tickets for the Nick Varner Trick and Fancy Shot Exhibition are $2.50 and are available at the Schoolcraft College Student Activities Office and at the door.

For further information regarding the exhibition, phone 591-6400, Ext. 380.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road.

Nick Varner, the 1980 World Pocket Billiard Champion, will give an exhibition at 8 p.m. Friday at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Tickets are priced at $2.50.

'Mr. Rock and Roll' still loves contact with the public

By JOHN SPELICH
Special to Playtime

Rare is the opportunity to look into a major entertainer's personality and find traits such as warmth, sincerity, tenderness and devotion. All these traits exist beneath the ruddy exterior of Jerry Lee Lewis.

Playtime caught up with Jerry Lee Lewis and his manager J. W. Whitten at DB's at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. Sandwiched between posing for a national magazine and starting his 9 p.m. performance, Lewis sat down to discuss his accomplishments and his future.

It is made very clear. People are very important to Jerry Lee Lewis. He loves the contact with them. In the hotel lobby he was content greeting and chatting with anyone who came near. He would even occasionally belt out a line or two from his many rock and roll hits. When he is "on," he is untouchable.

Lewis constantly chooses to play small clubs instead of large concert halls. In his current tour he has played the Ritz in New York City and Second Chance in Ann Arbor.

In contrast to other performers from the "Golden Age" of rock and roll, Lewis still travels with his own group, the Memphis Beats, featuring Ken Lovelace and Joel Schumaker on guitars, Randy Wilks on bass and Ron Norwood on drums. He still clings to the thrill of live performance, a feeling which appears lacking in his contemporaries.

One name brought up was Chuck Berry.

"Chuck's just tired of it all," said Lewis. "He cried when the judge sentenced him to four months in jail and a 100 free concerts. I told Chuck, 'Don't take it so hard, you can believe that judge will be there every show.'"

Lewis' own brush with the law three years ago, which resulted in the repossession of his car collection by the Internal Revenue Service, brought the chance for him to practice his philosophy.

"I told them they could haul my cars off but they couldn't take my talent away," he declared.

Lewis is an insatiable workaholic. He is going year-round. Reportedly he tours nine months of the year and fits studio sessions in between dates. Beginning March 6, he plans to tour the East Coast and then jet to Los Angeles for a West Coast stand.

Lewis recently completed a session at Caribou studios in Colorado in which he cut 40 gospel songs. Not new to gospel music, Lewis cut a record for Mercury in 1971 called Loving Memories. Mercury jerked it after a short period, despite good sales.

"They said it ruined my image," Lewis recalled last week. "I don't know. I started out doing (gospel)."

No word was given as to when the gospel tracks would be released. Manager Whitten indicated he wouldn't pressure Lewis.

"I won't push him. It's in his heart. It will come out," Whitten said.

Gospel music will not mark a career change for Lewis, merely an extension of his vast versatility. Many southern performers, including Elvis Presley, have included gospel music as part of their repertoire, no matter what their mainstream musical appeal.

Whitten said plans are also in the works of bringing Keith Richard of the Rolling Stones and the members of Bruce Springsteen's E Street Band into the studio to cut a record with Lewis.

"Keith likes Jerry so much he carries a suitcase of his albums on tour with him," said Whitten. "Keith even wrote his phone number on a $100 bill, tore it in half and gave it to me."

Lewis' new single, "39 and Holdin'," is number nine on the charts and will supposedly climb to number six this week.

Lewis' innovative style, variety and devotion have earned him recognition by musicians as well as fans as one of the grandfathers of rock and roll. Christened "Mr. Rock and Roll" he was once referred to by the Beatles as the originator of rock and roll.

"They were being kind," said Lewis. "I think the Beatles and the Rolling Stones brought rock and roll back."

Upcoming shows at the club are B.B. King, March 2-7, Rickey Nelson, March 9-14, Henny Youngman, March 16-21 and Detroit's own Temptations, March 23-28. For information and reservations, call 593-1234.

What's That Sound?

By STEVE O'LEARY

Simple but honest music

JOE "KING" CARRASCO AND
THE CROWNS
(Hannibal)

Unlike 90 percent of the music being put out today, this album of humorous Tex-Mex rock 'n' roll is honest — straight from the heart, gut-level honesty from a band which sounds as if they love doing what they're doing more than anything in the whole world. And I think they do.

Hailing from Austin, Texas, Carrasco and crew play a simple brand of music, but the basics enhanced are the most important ones when it comes to rock 'n' roll, assuring the audience of a toe-tapping, knee-slapping (terms meaning "good to dance to...") good time.

When asked, Joe "King" Carrasco says that his idea of the perfect song is "96 Tears," and like that classic song, his music relies heavily on a pumping, rollicking

Farfisa organ, in this case played by Kris Cummings. The light, though intoxicating sound, is the perfect lubricant for Carrasco numbers such as "Houston El Mover," "Caca De Vaca," and the album's highlight "Buena."

Also worth mentioning is the rampant rocker "Don't Bug Me Baby," which I first heard when I saw the Carrasco band on the Son Of Stiff Tour, and was still singing (or as close as I can get to "singing") two weeks later when the album arrived.

Joe "King" Carrasco And The Crowns is definitely an album worth getting, if for nothing else than a prop to reminisce about how great rock 'n' roll radio used to be, but if they would only play this record on the air, that'd be a giant step back in the right direction.

The band will appear at Bookies Club 870 Thursday night. For more information call 862-0877.

Portable spas provide year-round relaxation at home

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

Some 2000 years ago the Romans enjoyed their relaxing effect. Later the Japanese expanded the concept to produce what commonly are referred to as "hot tubs." Today they attract weary customers in health clubs, who rest in the "whirlpool" or "jacuzzi" following a tough workout.

And now a local marketing director hopes to bring these swirling pools of water right into Michigan homes.

"I sell spas," remarked Tracy Miller, a devilish look crossing his face. "That's what I tell people and they immediately think of some big building with health equipment."

"So I then explain that a spa is what they call 'whirlpool,'" he added. "Their initial confusion allows me to pitch my product after getting their attention."

As the new Michigan marketing director for a portable spa manufactured by Regal Whirlpools Inc. of Tampa, Miller has a formidable selling task ahead of him. Not with the quality of the product line, he quickly points out, but rather with attitudes regarding so called luxury items.

"We must overcome the stigma that whirlpools are permanent structures," Miller explained. "These units are self contained and portable that can be plugged in and used outside or in any room in the house. That's important because people in Michigan can enjoy their whirlpool at home even during the winter months."

"Consumers want a turn key operation," continued Miller, now in his 19th year of marketing water related products. "Cost factors are less relevant if the hidden costs are eliminated. For the first time we can give the customer the bottom line on a portable spa — there are no hidden costs."

The whirlpools, made of acrylic, range in price from $2500 and are constructed for lifetime use, according to the Farmington Hills based marketing director. A model geared for a family of four measures five by seven and one-half feet and 24 inches in depth. Payments on the $3500 unit would average under $3 per day with financing, Miller said.

"It's a great way to relieve tension and relax sore muscles," declared Miller. "And if only one member of the household needs to use it for medical reasons, the spa is 100 percent tax deductible no matter how many others use it."

Although the portable spas have gained acceptance in California since first appearing there some seven years ago, the industry has yet to reach its potential in the East and Midwest, the director admitted.

Director Tracy Miller

"The East Coast is slow for new ideas," he said. "But in the last two years the market has become more receptive."

"A swimming pool used to be considered a luxury item until it finally became a way of life, a necessity for many people. Today a spa is still a luxury item but that will change once its relative affordability is publicized properly. Our job is to make the product known — then things will fall in place and it will no longer be ahead of its time."

Since December Miller has been busily seeking local dealers for the line of Regal Whirlpools. Further information, literature or demonstration of a portable spa can be obtained through Tracy Miller and Associates, 22010 Green Hill Drive, Farmington Hills, Mich. 48024 (phone 477-4575).

"People like to be the first to have something nobody else has," Miller concluded.

This marketing director hopes that in Michigan that something will soon be a portable spa or whirlpool or jacuzzi...

Chocolate Cheesecake Cups

When the occasion calls for one spectacular dessert -- as the highlight of a simple meal or for a special occasion -- Chocolate Cheesecake Cups rate high on all counts. These miniature baked chocolate cheesecakes are just the right size to satisfy a chocolate lover's craving. Best of all, they're easy to make!

It's the magic of the blender that streamlines the time and effort in preparing this dessert. It blends the ingredients in about a minute -- conventional beating will take a bit longer. And who can resist the luscious combination of sweet cooking chocolate, flaked coconut and cream cheese? Foil baking cups are the "pans," and a vanilla wafer forms the crust of each cake.

To top it, garnish each cake with a dollop of whipped topping and chocolate curls or maraschino cherries.

Chocolate Cheesecake Cups

18 vanilla wafers

1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (4 oz.) Baker's German sweet chocolate, melted
1/2 cup Baker's Angel Flake coconut

Place 1 vanilla wafer, flat side up, in each of 18 midget-size aluminum foil baking cups; place on baking sheet. Combine cream cheese, sugar, eggs and vanilla in electric blender container. Blend for about 30 seconds, or until smooth. Add chocolate and blend 30 seconds longer, scraping sides of container occasionally. Pour into cups; sprinkle with coconut. Bake at 325° for 20 minutes. Cool on rack and serve cool or chilled. Garnish with thawed frozen whipped topping and maraschino cherries or chocolate curls, if desired. Store in refrigerator. Makes 18.

Dinner party marks Straub's silver wedding anniversary

Twenty-five years of togetherness for Albert and Shirley Straub of 14384 Elwell Rd., Belleville, were celebrated in high fashion Feb. 14, appropriately on Valentine's Day, when their children hosted a gala surprise dinner party in their honor at Rawsonville Woods Estate Clubhouse.

Greeting some 135 relatives and friends as they arrived at the designated time of 7:45 p.m. were: Sandra Brown and her husband, George, and Keith Bruder and his wife, Ginger, all of Belleville; Kathleen Darnell and her husband, James, of Romulus; and Dawn Pluff and her husband, Butch, of Belleville.

The family tree also includes eight grandchildren: George, Judy, Robbie and David Brown; Aaron, Ryan and Amber Darnell, and Tamara Pluff.

The cities of Lansing, Fowlerville, Clinton, Brighton, Portage, Monroe, Saline, Milan, Livonia, Canton, Ypsilanti, Willis and Belleville were registered in the guest book which granddaughter Judy Brown and Sherry Hutchison circulated during the evening.

Members of the wedding party present were Mrs. Straub's brother-in-law and sister, Ronald and Maxine Howard of Willis who had served as honor attendants; a brother-in-law Kenneth Straub of Milan, who'd ushered; Dorothy McCoy of Portage, who had had charge of the guest book, and Thelma Klapper of Saline, who had presided at the coffee service.

Also attending were long-time friends, Alton and June Olsen, who winged their way from Grand Marais, Minn. especially for the occasion.

A turkey and ham buffet was served amid decorations in the Valentine motif with red and white carnations placed in the 25 white bud vases which Sandra Brown had made for centerpieces. On the head table were two arrangements -- one a silver bowl with three red candles decorated with red and white carnations, a gift from Mrs. Lucille Torr, and the other -- a hand-painted miniature bride and groom placed in a glass globe amid floral blooms, also the work of Sandra Brown.

Another highlight of the festivities was the "bride's" wedding gown and shoulder-length veil, an aqua ballerina gown and, as a bit of fun, a sheer black negligee, on display along with wedding pictures, the marriage license and other mementoes of that special day, Feb. 18, 1956, when Shirley Fenn Bruder and Albert Straub became husband and wife.

Decorated in pink and silver, the wedding cake was the work of Pat Raby. Wilma Wilamowski of Livonia, who had baked the original confection, cut and served the cake.

Retired from the custodial department at Belleville High School, Mr. Straub has a huge old steam engine and a bunch of "porkers" to fill his spare time. His wife, who enjoys quilting, crewel embroidery and sewing, works as a receptionist for Dr. John MacDermid in Belleville.

Ah, but that wasn't to be all, for a few nights later, on the actual wedding date, the silver anniversary couple was once again feted when some 35 neighbors, relatives and friends got together for an old-fashioned shivaree.

potpourri

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Way back when there wasn't even a glimmer of an engagement ring or the strains of The Wedding March being hummed around our house, I'd warned the daughters-three that when-and-if they ever had kids I was NOT going to be a baby-sitting grandma!

That was delivered with emphasis and with plenty of notice since I always visualized my trio within a reasonable driving distance and my being mighty "handy" for that particular service. Well, I'd raised my family and no way was I going to be spending my post-kiddie days amid the constant brigade of diaper bags and collapsible tot furniture.

Well, I got fooled! That Number One grandbaby isn't even a Michiganiac let alone within a reasonable driving distance. Five hours on the road just isn't too conducive for parking baby with "muma and boppa."

And so it came to be that when a request for a long weekend of "Matthew" was received, it was taken with a smile and eager anticipation. It makes a difference when you don't get to see that little fella on a regular basis and this was going to be filling a 2-months gap since our last "togetherness."

With the young parents heading for the Straits and then on up to their cabin in the wilderness of Canada, Tecumseh seemed a reasonable spot for parking said baby. And, oh, did we have fun together!

And what a different person you become when you're that nobly titled GRANDparent. How very leniently you can view the things he chooses for playthings during his stay -- the fireplace shovel and brush (what the heck, he's only dragging them back and forth across the hearth), the onyx Easter eggs which he discovers tucked away behind closed hutch doors (they're certainly not breakable and as long as he doesn't decide to drop them on the glass coffee table, so what?) And those three bars of motel soap (as long as he keeps 'em wrapped; what harm can come from running them like little cars across the furniture?)

I can look back on an attitude quite different from that with our own little ones. I was too much of a stickler at times and, fortunately, can now recognize that strictness is sometimes carried too far.

A drive out to that wonderful farm market a few miles away and sharing samples of cider, cheeses and crackers, jams and jellies on Triscuits, and even some "natural" snack foods made for an interesting and "satisfying" Saturday morning for our little city kid, who emerged from his market basket travels with one of his granddad's shiny red apples well on its way to oblivion.

Aunt Susie supplied a diversion for her young nephew and did the babysitter bit while the old folks went out on the town that night and we know THAT meant a lot of roughhousing for a certain 21-months-old young man. He LOVES to taunt "Soo-see."

And what a super time we had Sunday amid a spread of nachos, enchiladas, tostados, burritos, chimichangas, tacos, and all the other Mexican goodies we opted for on our dinner stop at a great Toledo eatery, Chi-Chi's. We found our little one (dare I say little "juan"?) was as delighted with the off-beat fare as we were (and he has a good strong tummy, too!)

The too-short weekend (it ended early Tuesday A.M.) was as much a break and change of routine for the grandparents as it was for Matt's mommie and daddy. He is a darlin' little boy, happy and bubbly and with a heckuva lot of mischief in him. But we loved seeing his progress and hearing his toddler vocabulary and were truly reluctant about handing him over and sending him back to Illinois on a day which turned out to be terribly quiet... and dull... after his departure. THAT kind of babysitting is a TREAT!

From little spiral-back book, chockful of aids for us household engineers (ahem), come the following bits of advice. Mary Ellen's "Best of Helpful Kitchen Hints" was lent to us by our office partner, Diane Ferguson; she, too, having been book-gifted at Christmas.

TIPS WITH VEGETABLES --

A toothpick inserted between lid and pot before cooking will let just enough steam escape later to prevent messy boilovers.

To restore a fresh flavor to frozen vegetables, pour boiling water over them to rinse away all traces of the frozen water.

Once an onion has been cut in half, rub the leftover cut side with butter and it will keep fresh longer.

Peel fresh white onions easily by plunging them into boiling water for two minutes.

To keep red cabbage from turning purple, add a tablespoon of vinegar when cooking.

For simple peeling, take sweet potatoes from boiling water and plunge them immediately into cold water. The skins will fall off.

Many vegetables can be freshened by soaking them for an hour in cold water to which the juice of a lemon or a few tablespoons of vinegar have been added.

BITS OF TRIVIA FOR COLLECTORS OF SUCH STUFF
Now that's REALLY rich! Wealthy Romans once kept slaves running from the mountains to their villas with snow to cool their wines.

HE listened to the fans. The first major league baseball umpire to wear eyeglasses was Eddie Rommel in a Yankees-Senators game on April 18, 1956.

Hi, lardy! Forty percent of the average American diet consists of fat!

A bloomin' community. Our tri-county area is the nation's biggest producer of flower bedding plants.

Going on a hundred thirty-two and holding. The Michigan State Fair is the nation's oldest, having started in 1849. It drew 490,000 folks last year.

A-E-I-O-U -- the only word in the English language with all five vowels in their correct order is the word "facetious."

One of the first things a reader notices about "The Tenth Commandment", another of Lawrence Sanders' Biblically-titled books, is the unusual names he bestows on his characters. His male protagonist, to begin with, an investigator for a legal firm of Tabachnick, Orsini, Reilly and Teitelbaum, stands a mere 5 feet, 3 and 3/8 inches small and has the misnomer, Joshua BIGG.

Others in the "cast" include Ula Stonehouse, the slightly flaky wife of Professor Stonehouse whose disappearance is one of two big cases Joshua is assigned to investigate. She has a daughter, Glynis Stonehouse, who seems to be taking her father's absence a bit too coolly; and a son, Powell Stonehouse, who's not quite put together.

Then there's Saul Kipper whose "suicide" is rather suspect and prompts the query, why did he jump only six stories at his home (and forward rather than straight down) when he could have leapt 34 stories from his office building? His not-quite-grieving widow is labeled "Tippi Kipper" and she not only has a houseman, Chester Heavens, who naturally makes you wonder if the butler did it, but a paramour, The Rev. Godfrey Knurr, a Protestant lay minister.

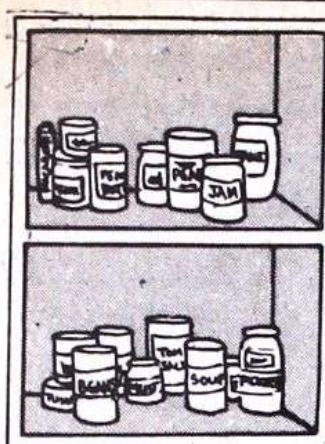

How the two investigations (Bigg's first solo sleuthing) intertwine and how the maze of fascinating and suspicious characters are worked into this who-dunnit make for several hundred pages which can easily fill a few wintery nights.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, the author, once mistook a mental institution for a college. When the gatekeeper informed him of his mistake, Holmes said with a smile, "Well, I guess there isn't much difference between them anyway."

"There certainly is," replied the guard. "You have to show a lot of improvement before you can get out of this place."

THE BOTTOM LINE: Firmness is that admirable quality in ourselves that is detestable stubbornness in others.

The Kitchen Cupboard

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Salads are probably one of the few parts of a meal that can be served as an appetizer, as the main course or a side dish. What they contain is limited only to the extent of the maker's imagination. (Who says that a salad has to include only vegetables? The Waldorf Salad would have never come into being if a chef hadn't decided to use up a supply of apples and throw in some raisins.)

The McDonald household falls into the vegetable salad, but it takes a while to wade through the alfalfa sprouts, peppers, radishes, carrots, onions and whatever else I can find to get to the lettuce. Macaroni salad isn't all that popular (I like it, but that's probably because it has pasta in it), and potato salad has to be made in very small quantities, or I end up eating the leftovers for days on end.

But the good people at Kraft have come up with some different ways of jazzing up salads — potato, fruit and fruit-vegetable style.

A main dish idea is an Alpine Potato Salad, described as "like a breath of fresh mountain air," that can be served with crisp pumpernickel or rye bread and cold beer.

Another suggestion is a California Avocado Refresher, filled with fresh fruits currently out of season, but a great idea for lunch on one of those sweltering summer days ahead that we dream about in the middle of winter.

And lastly we have a Fresno Fruit Salad that combines the crispness of fresh spinach with the flavors of peaches, pears and grapes, topped off with a gourmet dressing you make yourself.

ALPINE POTATO SALAD

1½ quarts quartered cooked new potatoes
2 cups shredded red cabbage
2 cups ham strips
1 cup celery slices
¼ cup green onion slices
¾ cup Kraft Italian dressing
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
8 ozs. natural Swiss cheese, cut into strips
Combine potatoes, cabbage, meat, celery and onion. Add combined dressing and mustard; mix lightly. Add cheese just before serving; mix lightly. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CALIFORNIA AVOCADO REFRESHER

1 cup watermelon balls
1 cup cantaloupe balls
½ cup honeydew melon balls
½ cup celery slices
4 avocado halves, peeled
Lettuce
2 tablespoons blue cheese, crumbled
Kraft French dressing
Combine melon and celery; mix lightly. Place avocados on individual lettuce-covered plates; fill with fruit mixture. Top with cheese; serve with dressing. Makes 4 servings.

FRESNO FRUIT SALAD

1 8-ounce bottle Kraft French dressing
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon ground coriander
1½ quarts torn spinach
1 cup pear slices
1 cup peach slices
1 cup grape halves
¼ cup alfalfa sprouts
Combine dressing, honey and coriander; mix well. Combine spinach, fruit and alfalfa sprouts; toss lightly. Serve with dressing. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
A helpful hint in preventing the fruit from discoloring is to dip the pieces in citrus juice before tossing into salad.

At the library

ROMULUS PUBLIC LIBRARY 11121 Wayne Road FICTION

"Freddy's Book" by John Gardner. From one of America's most distinguished and admired novelists, an irresistible novel within a novel, a metaphysical folktale. It begins on a Midwestern campus as an aging bespectacled professor of Scandinavian history announces to a younger historian and folklorist, "I have a son who's a monster."

"Creek Mary's Blood" by Dee Brown. This is a powerful, beautifully wrought and ultimately tragic saga about four generations of American Indian life.

"A Day Late" by Carolyn Doty. When Sam Batinovich — grieving, angry, bewildered by a guilt he only half understands — stops to pick up a young hitchhiker who conceals a secret of her own, these unlikely traveling companions begin a journey across the desolate Nevada landscape and into themselves.

BIOGRAPHY

"Will" by Gordon G. Liddy. This is an important book because it tells what he was, what he became and what he then did.

"Minnie Pearl" by Minnie Pearl. The author's reminiscences sparkle with laughter and vitality and capture vividly the personalities, the moods and the events of the innocent days of country-style entertainment.

Local woman in WCC's play 'Aladdin's Lamp'

"Aladdin's Lamp" opens at 7 p.m. March 6 at Washtenaw Community College. The Children's Theater production features WCC students directed by William T. Devereaux, speech and theater instructor at the College and also author of the play.

Michael L. Deiman, an Ann Arbor resident and electrical engineering major, will play Aladdin. Jeff Boyer of Chelsea, a partner in the Boyer & Fitzsimmons Magin Company, will play the part of the Grand Wizzer and perform magical illusions during the play.

Michael Warmack, Ann Arbor resident and owner of Tuff-Shirt T-Shirt Company, will appear in "Aladdin" as the Grand Exalted Emir. Robert Shipp, a sophomore theater major from Los Angeles, will be Lord High Executioner.

Freshman art student, Margaret Major from Ann Arbor, plays Roxanne. Eileen Foster of Belleville has the part of Fatima. Maria Raupp, a natural resources major, plays Marina. Tracy Gentner is the understudy for all three female parts.

Kathy Charron, a freshman theater major from Ann Arbor, is stage manager for the production.

Tickets for the performance are 75 cents each and are available at the theater in the Liberal Arts and Science Building on the Washtenaw Community College Campus at 4800 East Huron River Drive.

After "Aladdin's Lamp" opens at the College, it will tour area elementary schools for several weeks. Devereaux says. Five to six thousand children will see the play during its 20-25 performances.

"An American Saga: the Life and Times of Rockwell Kent" by David Traxel. The story of an American artist who led a rich and varied life.

FOOD, COOKING

"Vegetarian Gourmet Cookbook" by Paul Southey. This is more than just another cookbook with the accent on meatless food. It provides, in addition to easy to follow recipes, a comprehensive nutrition guide to healthy eating without meat, and menu ideas for well-balanced, delicious vegetarian feasts.

"The Easy Art of Smoking Food" by Chris Dubbs. We smoke food because we like the flavor it imparts. And to get the most of that flavor — and have it tailored exactly to our taste — home-smoking is far and away the best procedure.

GARDENING, PLANTS

"Houseplants and Indoor Landscaping" by Muriel Orans. You can grow attractive, decorative plants indoors with a minimum amount of effort and knowhow.

"The Easy Garden" by Alec Bristow. This book is for people who love gardens but do not love gardening. Its aim is to show you how to get the most out of your garden for as little work as possible.

"Orchids for Everyone" is a practical guide to the home cultivation of over 200 of the world's most beautiful varieties.

MISCELLANEOUS

"The Fleecing of America" by William Proxmire. There are hundreds of ways to shear a lamb, i.e. — the American taxpayer — and the country is full of experts at the game. The Senator discusses these and offers a new formula for sane fiscal policy and getting our money's worth out of the U.S. government's annual budget.

"GI Guinea Pigs" by Michael Uhl. This paints a shocking picture of how the U.S. military wantonly exposed thousands of its own men to toxic levels of radiation and herbicides.

BELLEVILLE PUBLIC LIBRARY 167 Fourth Street FICTION

"Winding Stair" by Douglas C. Jones. Eben Pay is a young lawyer serving the court of a famous hanging judge. Eben is naive, earnest and honest and he learns about how the West was really won.

"After the First Death" by Robert Cormier. Events of the hijacking of a bus of children by terrorists seeking the return of their homeland are described from the perspectives of a hostage, a terrorist, an Army general involved in the rescue operation and his son, chosen as the go-between.

"Maigret's Rival" by Georges Simeon. One of the French detective's most interesting cases, the investigation of a murder in a provincial village.

"Countess of Sedgwick" by Marie Duell. Angharad of Breiz, loves her adventurous cousin Richard but marries Thomas, the soon-to-be Count of Sedgwick.

NO ANNUAL FEE!

Switch and save up to $20 per card!

Almost every area bank is charging an annual fee to its credit card customers. This means that if you have a MasterCard or Visa account at one of these banks, you will be charged an annual fee ranging between $10 and $20. And if you have a MasterCard at one bank and Visa at another, you will probably have to pay an annual fee at each bank.

Good News

At Wyandotte Savings Bank, there is still no annual fee for MasterCard and Visa cardholders. Which means you can save up to $20 per card per year! So it makes sense to switch your MasterCard and Visa accounts to WSB. But there's more.

More Good News

When you have both a MasterCard and Visa account at WSB, your monthly paperwork is cut in half. Instead of receiving two monthly statements and writing two checks, we'll send you just one statement and if there is a balance due, you'll only have to write one check. This saves you time and money.

Come to WSB and Save

So if you have one or both of your credit card accounts at another bank — or if you want to open a MasterCard and Visa account for the first time — apply at any office of Wyandotte Savings Bank. We'll save you money with no annual fees.

No annual fee on credit cards is just one more reason why you should do all your banking at Wyandotte Savings Bank. We've been helping people for over a century.

Junior Study Club announces winners of hope chest raffle

The Belleville Junior Study Club's annual card party, held at Trinity Episcopal Church on Feb. 18, was chaired by Sandra Lauth and Peggy Voight. Held for the express purpose of funding the Genevieve Clark Scholarship, the party was attended by some 70 guests, attendance down from previous years due to inclement weather.

The hope chest, divided into four parts, and including afghans, tablecloths, ceramics, books, and assorted crafts, went to Janet Fanzl, Shirley Lightfoot, Jean Wilder and Doreen Craven.

A special guest for the evening was Mrs. Maxine Lane, Southeastern District President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who gave a brief welcoming speech then joined in both the activities and clean-up work afterwards.

At a later meeting, club members debated awarding a scholarship for 1981 since the profits from the card party were only $125. It was the opinion that the tradition would be kept alive and, no matter what the amount, should be presented to a qualifying applicant.

New on the scene

"Gabriel Alan" is the title given the first child, a son, born Feb. 17, to Greg and Mary Ivan of 105 S. Biggs St., Belleville.

Hail Huron, state champ!

Belleville wrestlers finish third at Class A championships

New Boston Huron stands atop of the state's Class B wrestling empire.

Coach Tom Fritz and his grapplers earned the coveted honor last Saturday at Crisler Arena by beating back the best there is in Michigan high school wrestling. They did in on the outstanding performances of Jerry Umin, Wade Tackett, Steve Bokor, Joe Rice and Mike Umin.

Eaton Rapids was second in the final state standings with 78 points while Flint Ainsworth was a far third with 57.

Coach Fritz' grapplers have now won the state title twice in a span of four years.

"I'm proud of these kids and the support that our community has given them," Fritz said. "It is and honor (winning the state crown) few can boast."

Huron picked up its first gold when

Jerry Umin won a major 9-0 decision over Robert Beck. Bokor had his hands full with Hartland's Tom Harris but managed to come out on top of a 9-4 decision, for his gold.

Rice reached the finals in the unlimited class where he clashed with Warren Fitzgerald's John Wojciechowski who turned back the Huron grappler via a 5:50 pin.

Tackett earned a third place medal when he edged Marshall's Ed Lagness, 6-3, while Umin finished fourth in the 138-pound class when he lost a 4-2 decision in the consolation round to Durand's Charles TRoot.

Meanwhile, Belleville, after an excellent day on Friday, had its problems on Saturday. Coach Gerald Malecek's Tigers came away from Ann Arbor with a second place from Lonnie Renfroe's performance at 145 and a pair of fourth place medals from Norm Bates (138) and Steve Cook (198) while Mel Richendollar (185) finished in sixth.

"We placed all four of our qualifiers," Malecek pointed out. "And we wound up third at state, the highest finish ever

Fritz in midst of glory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Tom Fritz went to bed early Sunday night to catch up on some sleep. He was numb, tired and, although he said he wanted to talk, he just "didn't have the voice to."

Like a tornado that has whirled and twirled and suddenly given up its strength, Fritz wanted to retreat to the inner sanctum of his home.

Understandably, he has been on the go all year and Saturday night in Crisler Arena, in that temple that Cassey Russell built, Fritz and his New Boston Huron Chiefs, were crowned the best high school Class B wrestling team in the state.

It is an honor few have ever known. It is a coaching feat that is bewildering to most, a nightmarish vision, a goal only a few masochist to reach.

And you have to be a masochist to reach the top, the top of anything. Whatever you suffer, you, and you alone feel. The others only think they understand. They can never understand until they produce a state champ.

"I really don't know what to say," Fritz offered on Monday. "I know you sportswriters have heard it so many times before, but you just have to give credit to these kids. They're the ones who did it. Not me. Kids like Jerry and Mike Umin, Joe Rice, Wade Tackett and Steve Baker are kids you love to coach. They're the ones who deserve credit for all of this."

Fritz is being modest, but he is also sincere when he says he wants all the credit to be given to his kids. It's probably one of the keys to the success of Fritz' wrestling program, a program that has produced two state championships teams within the span of the past four years.

And don't be surprised if the Chiefs are back atop of Michigan's "B" prep mat world again at this time a year from now — they seem to have a virus out there in New Boston that makes prep wrestlers immune to most of the ills suffered by many area preps athletes.

They are winners, a sophist one wrote, because they have chosen to be winners.

Gerald Malecek, whose team finished third behind Davison and Temperance Bedford at the Class A state wrestling finals, didn't stick around for any comments after the tournament.

In fact, Malecek apparently took off for points unknown. We tried desperately to reach him at his home but was unsuccessful.

But let it be noted that this year's Belleville team accomplished what none of its predecessors ever hoped to — it finished the highest in state than any other Tiger mat club.

Jak Warren, who has helped make this section one of the best when it comes to covering the high school wrestling scene, was honored over the weekend at the state tournament by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Warren, the official state scorer who refuses to take any compensation for his tedious work — and if any of you have ever tried to take wrestling scores that adjective doesn't exactly cover the job — received a plaque from the MHSAA and presented to him by Lonie D. Lowrey, assistant director of the MHSAA.

The plaque read, in part, "To Jak Warren, for his leadership and contribution to high school wrestling in the state of Michigan."

For more than a decade, Warren has been instrumental in promoting the sport not only in this area but in the state.

Before we leave the mats and jump into the thick of the cage playoffs, there's one more note of interest about an area wrestler who is setting records at Ferris State College. He's Darren Cline, ex-All-Area grappler from Romulus High School who has finished the 1980-81 wrestling season in high fashion.

Cline, a muscular 255-pound heavyweight, placed fifth in the recent NCAA Division II Midwest Regional, held at Youngstown State. He came up with two pins in the regional, giving him 13 for the year — a new Ferris school record.

Cline posted a 16-14 record for the season with 63 team points, the third best standard on the Bulldog team.

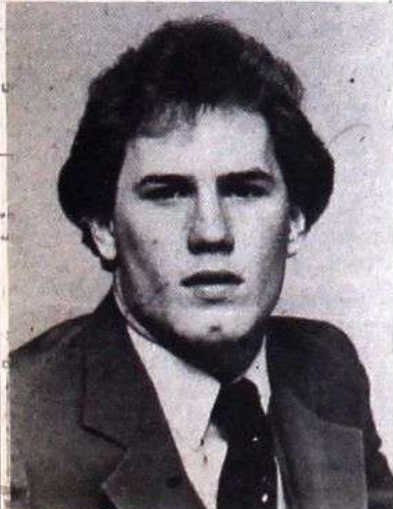

Overshadowed by the signing of Wayne Memorial's Rick Rogers by the University of Michigan, two other outstanding area athletes also inked full-ride scholarships last week. They're Westland John Glenn's "strongman" Dale Boone and Plymouth Canton's Craig Gearns.

Boone, considered one of the finest prospects to wear a Rocket uniform, is a 6-2, 205 pound offensive and defensive tackle, will enroll this fall at Eastern Michigan University where he'll continue his athletic career.

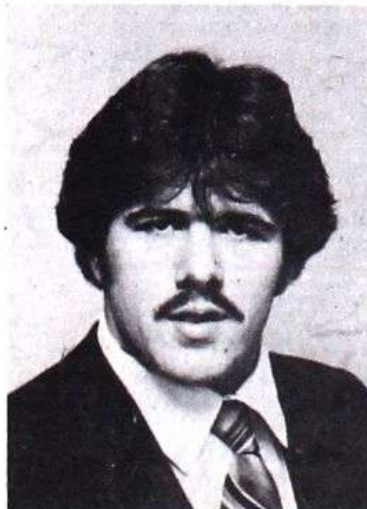

In the meantime, Gearns, one of the key performers for the Chiefs in the past three years, will travel to Saginaw Valley College.

A 6-2, 210-pound defensive tackle who was used as a tight end on offense, Craig will be joining former teammate Rusty Mandle who was recruited a year ago as a quarterback.

"We feel Craig is an outstanding prospect with a lot of potential," said Saginaw coach Jim Larkin. "We know he'll fit into our game plan and we recruited him basically as a tight end."

'Time out, ' please

Things just weren't going the way Coach Steve Schultz liked them to be, so he decided to ask for a "time out" to discuss the problem with his Wayne Memorial cagers. Although the Zebra cage strategist managed to get some life into his team in the second half against the visiting Bruins of Wyandotte, it was too late to overcome a 10-point deficit. Wayne fell in its final home appearance and last time in the old gym. They'll be moving to new quarters next fall — to a multi-million athletic complex adjacent to the high school.

Glenn gets revenge, too

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

John Glenn got even with Wayne Memorial and the Zebras got even with the board.

That was the story of last week's cage results which brought down the curtains on the regular season and set the stage for tonight's big double-header in the district playoffs at Plymouth Salem High School.

Glenn, which evened the score with a 59-51 win over Wayne Memorial last week, tangles with Garden City East at 6:30 p.m. tonight after drawing a bye Tuesday.

Wayne Memorial, which lost 69-59 to Wyandotte Friday, plays in the second game of tonight's double-header at 8:15 p.m. against the winner of the Plymouth Salem-Canton clash Tuesday night. Tonight's winners meet at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for the district championship and Saturday's winner goes to the Ypsi regional.

Glenn has no easy task with Garden City East tonight, a team they trounced by 33 points early in the season but barely beat, 56-54, Friday in the Panther's gym.

"I feel that having a close game with East will help us when we meet Thursday night (tonight) in the state playoffs," Glenn Coach Dan Henry said after the Rockets escaped with their 15th win in 20 games this season.

"There's no tomorrow in the state tournament and we'll have our hands full even though East has not won many games this season. It's tough to beat a team three times in one season."

Glenn had a hard time getting untracked Friday night after leading 14-11 after the first period before an enthusiastic parents' night crowd at East. The Panthers, improving with each game, outscored Glenn 14-7 in the second period and 16-15 in the third quarter for a 41-36 lead going into the home stretch.

Eagles clip Monroe CC, 68-57

Senior Bill Miller turned in his best over-all performance of the season as he grabbed 13 rebounds and sank 10 points to lead Romulus to a 68-57 basketball victory over visiting Monroe Catholic Central Friday night.

The victory enabled Coach Al Wilkerson and his Eagles to finish the regular season with a 5-13 won-lost record. They'll make their next appearance Wednesday night against Temperance Bedford in the second round of the Class A district playoffs staged at Ypsilanti High School.

The championship at Ypsilanti will be determined Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Wilkerson, who finished out his first year as head coach, labelled the season as "frustrating."

"Although it was a frustrating year limited) and Jeff Vojcek's fifth (98).

Wayne Memorial, the only other team in the area to qualify wrestlers for state, came away with one medal, a fifth in the 105-pound class thanks to Paul Justice.

1st Spartan team to go undefeated in conference

By knocking off Taylor Kennedy Friday night and destroying Southgate in a make-up game last Tuesday, Cherry Hill cagers became the first basketball team in the school's and only the second team in Tri-River Conference history to win all 14 of its league games.

Coach Dave Bogataj's Spartans prevailed over Taylor Kennedy 73-54 for their historic 14 conference and 16 (of 20) victory over-all on the season. They beat up on Southgate 72-48. Only Garden City West and its All-American prep, center Rick Drezwitz, has ever managed to post a perfect season. The Tigers and their coach, Chris Babler, accomplished the feat in 1969.

"I know I can say that we're all proud of this team," offered Bogataj who is rounding out his second year as the Spartans head coach. "These kids have been just tremendous since the Christmas break. We've been averaging 27 field goals and playing excellent defense."

With the conference crown stashed away, Cherry Hill must now ready itself for the Class B district playoffs. They drew a first round bye at Robichaud and were scheduled to play the winner of the Divine Child and Garden City West game Wednesday (March 4) at 7:30 p.m.

If the Spartans survive the semi-finals, they will then play for the district title at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Dearborn Heights high school.

Outscoring Kennedy 25-8 in the third period on the strength of Chico Ellis' 11 points, the Spartans crushed their final league rivals of the 1981 campaign. It wasn't quite that easy, however. In the first half Kennedy trailed only by a bucket (13-11) at the end of the first period and remained in reach 31-24 at the halfway mark.

"It was Parents' Night," Bogataj offered, "and I got to play all of our kids."

It was Miller time at Romulus

For all of us," Wilkerson continued, "I must say that everything is going to pay off a year from now. These kids now know what to expect. They know that there will be no easy ones for them. They know they're going to have to work for each victory."

But that wasn't really the case against Monroe CC. Ahead by as much as 24 points at one time, Wilkerson managed to substitute freely all during the mismatch.

Backed by double figure scoring from Bob Stewart, who tossed in a team high 21 points, and 14 points from Troy Gray along with 13 and 10 points from Patrick Bell and Miller, the Eagles built up a 18-10 first period lead, increased the margin to 38-26 at halftime.

"We were in control all the way," Wilkerson said. "The closest they ever got to making up the difference was the final score."

Belleville ekes out last second win over Truman

Dearborn surge stops Tigers in Sub-8 cage finale

Belleville may have wound up with an anemic 6-13 won-lost record this season, but there isn't a team around that can boast that Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers were easy marks.

As in 10 such previous games, the Tigers shot it out Friday night until the last seconds in their season's home finale, but this time they won a frenzied 51-50 decision over visiting Taylor Truman.

Reggie Grantham canned a free throw with eight seconds left in the game which decided the outcome in favor of the hosts.

"Like in so many other games this season," Coach Niemi pointed out, "it was a battle right to the wire. And it was a very physical game at that. We missed a couple of shots and got hammered in the process, but we didn't make them."

"Grantham and Mike Sampson were key factors in this victory," Niemi added.

The electrifying triumph over Truman enabled the Tigers to march into Monday's Class A district playoffs at Ypsilanti High with a 6-13 over-all record. Belleville was to play the hosts, and the winner of Monday night's game is pitted against Monroe in an 8:30 p.m. Thurs., March 5 contest.

The district championship will be decided on Fri., March 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Truman, behind forward Tony Roche's 10 field goals, kept the outcome of the game in doubt right to the final seconds. The Cougars jumped out in front 17-13 in the first period and held on to a slim 30-29 edge at intermission.

But with Sampson tossing in 10 of his game high 24 and with Sam Villa coming through with 14 points, the Tigers took the lead away 48-39 at the end of three periods.

Roche and Tony Craig Brown, who wound up with 15 points for the evening, gave the Cougars a 11-3 scoring edge in the last period, an 8-minute span in which the Tigers sank only one field goal.

Earlier in the week Dearborn captured the Suburban 8 Conference title thanks to a 59-42 victory over Belleville. The win gave the Pioneers a 10-2 league record.

Belleville lost its upset bid at the free throw line where Dearborn made 19 of 27 chances while the Tigers were given nine opportunities and made four.

John Hollis, hot from the outside, and Dave Rucker, who did most of the damage beneath the boards, paced the newly-crowned champs with 23 and 24 points, respectively.

Sampson was the only Belleville cager to reach double figures. He had 12.

Belleville had a 14-12 edge after the first eight minutes, but Dearborn came back with a 17-7 scoring advantage in the next period and took a 29-21 lead at halftime. Both teams put 14 points on the board in the third period, but Dearborn clinched the title with a 17-7 scoring ratio in the final frame.

Lines drawn for hockey playoffs

It's all over in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League and Little Bill's Trophies and Johnson Carbonic are sporting divisional titles.

Little Bill's secured first place position in the Berrington Division by skating past Tasee Freeze, 4-1. The Bonkowski Division honors go to Johnson Carbonic as it turned back Brock Builders while the Jock Shop went down in defeat to Futurama, eliminating any chance of catching Johnson's with just one game remaining in regular season play.

The league scoring race continued to be close as only three points separate the two top players. Ron Johnson has taken over in the goals scored category and Ron Wojewski is leading in the assists.

Tankers trip Wyandotte, 101-71

Wayne is ready to defend title

Once-beaten in their 13 dual meets this season, defending Great Lakes 8 Conference swim champs, Wayne Memorial, tuned up for the defense of its conference title by dunking Wyandotte, 101-71.

The victory padded the Zebras' record to 4-1 in the league as Coach Jim

The goalie race remains tight among four players; Jim Gibson, John Ruggiero, Don Smith and Tim Vanderburgh. Little Bill's skated past Tasee Freeze 4-1 as Don Middaugh finished the contest with two goals while Dan Thomas, and Dennis Lapensee each scored one goal and picked up an assist. Also getting one assist were Ken Beal, Terry Carley and Ron Hays.

Tasee Freeze scored its only goal late in the first period with Al Pulk chalking up the tally, assisted by Dane Frankling and Joe Sookup.

Ron Johnson led his team to a 7-2 win over Brock Builders by scoring three first period goals for Johnson Carbonic. Norm Beasley contributed by netting the puck twice and assisted three other goals while John Kunz finished the game with two goals and two assists.

Perry Toepfer, Eugene Hudson, George Motts, Mike Forynski and Claud Johnston each picked up one assist.

John Clearwood and Jay Middaugh accounted for Brock's two goals with Larry Kaifesh, Buddy Brock and Ed Mac picking up the assists.

What turned out to be the most important game of the season for the Jock Shop resulted in disappointment as Futurama scored with 44 seconds remaining in the game to record a 6-5 win.

Barry Anderson scored four times for Futurama, including the game winner.

Craig Averill and Mike Adamson checked in with single tallies while Bob Eggers, Rick Rattai, and Jim Drewry picked up two assists each. Dave Harris, Gary Naumoff and Ed Ross finished the game with one assist.

The Jock Shop was led by Jerry Robertson as he netted the puck twice while Ron Wojewski tallied for one and picked up three assists. Dave Zielinski and Curtis Oger each scored one goal. Zielinski also collected an assist.

Bob Murray, Jerry Peterson, Bill Creekmore & Bill McCusker each had one assist.

Dave Milam led Jake's Lounge to a 3-1 win over Etronic by scoring two goals in the final period, the second into an empty net with 9 seconds left in the contest. Jim Lear scored Jake's first goal and assisted Milam on a later goal while Terry Jobbitt picked up the assist on the goal scored by Lear.

Dennis Darnell accounted for Etronic's only goal of the game with Bob Wood and Dave Fishwick assisting.

Extra Point Bar & A/C handed Benny's Pizzeria its fourth straight loss 5-2. Nelson Vanderburgh led extra point with two goals and one assist while Joel Layne and Ray Ericksen checked in with one goal and one assist.

Roger Wodgenski accounted for the remaining Extra Point goal. Picking up two assists was Dave Fawkes while Gregg Piscopink, Jack Bockstanz, Pat Brown and Glenn Stevenson finished with one assist.

Benny's was held scoreless until the third period when Ray Schemanski and Chuck Jennett rattled the net. Ron Brock and Moe Paquette picked up the assists on Jennett's goal.

Playoff action is slated to begin Sunday, March 8, at the Wayne and Westland rinks. There will be no admission charge.

Due to the Bantam State Finals being held at the Westland Rink on March 8, game times at that rink will be 3 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Over in the Wayne Rink, the games are scheduled for 9 p.m. and 10:30.
